NOTICE
WHOOPIING COUGH
in This House
KEEP OUT

This notice has been placed here by order of the Health Commissioner and can only be removed by an order of the Health Commissioner.
CAUTION: All persons, except members of the family, physicians and nurses are prohibited from entering this house. If it is found that persons violate the above rules, the Health Commissioner will exercise the power given him by chapter and ordinance to have the patient removed to the Contagious Disease Ward of the City Hospital.

The presence of this Health Department placard in red letters on the front door of the late Judge Wilbur F.
Boyle's residence, at 5035 Lindell boulevard, opposite Forest Park, has led to the revelation of a wealthy woman's devotion to a homeless little boy.

It was known that since Judge Boyle's death, three months ago, the only member of the family living in the home was his daughter and heiress, Miss Sidney Emeline Boyle, called by her close friends Miss Lena Boyle.

The mystery became deeper when it was noted that Miss Boyle went about as usual and all of the servants went on duty.

Neighbors have been asking:
"Who has whooping cough at the Boyle home?"

4-Year-Old Orphan Patient.
The answer to this question could not be obtained from Miss Boyle, but from persons who are familiar with her charitable undertakings it was learned Friday that the whooping cough patient is Lloyd Frank, a 4-year-old orphan whose pneumonia and evidences of good breeding won Miss Boyle's admiration, and whose sufferings aroused her sympathy when she visited the headquarters of the Children's Home Society at 447 Marquette avenue three weeks ago.

Lloyd at that time had recently had typhoid fever and was suffering from stiff joints in the shape of a slight deafness and adenoids, a glandular growth in the nose, which if unchecked sometimes affects the brain and changes a child's moral nature, often causing a good child to become bad.

Miss Boyle has not decided whether she will legally adopt Lloyd, but she is eager that he have the best medical attention which her large fortune will afford, and he is now under the care of three physicians, all specialists.

First Sent to Bethesda.
On Miss Boyle's order the boy was first taken to the Bethesda Home at Spring and Vista avenues. He had been there only a short time under the care of Dr. E. W. Saunders when he developed whooping cough. As there were several scarlet fever cases in the contagious ward, he could not remain at the Bethesda.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hayne, who do much charitable work among children, took him to their home at 1801 South Grand avenue, where Dr. Saunders also lives. Miss Boyle paid all of the medical expenses, and two weeks ago, when Lloyd's condition had greatly improved, she had him removed to her own home.

Three Physicians Care for Him.
He has been under the constant care of Dr. Saunders, Dr. Mary McLean of 423 Delmar boulevard and Dr. Greenfield Sliver of 342 Washington avenue.

The doctors and others who have seen the boy have been greatly impressed by his beautiful bearing and his well-bred patience in the face of suffering.

Miss Boyle will not discuss the presence of the boy in her home and expresses regret that the charitable act which she thought to keep secret had been disclosed by the red placard on the door.

BOY WHO WAS SAVED
BY TROLLEY FENDER

SOLOMON ECKSTEIN

DOUBLE-HEADER IS EXCUSE FOR SLEEP

Policeman Declares Extra Tour of Duty Was Responsible
When Caught Napping.

Having been shifted from the first to the second platoon, Patrolman Arthur C. Smith of the Dayton Street District had to work 18 hours in a stretch, and at 11 p. m. Thursday he was tired.

He was waiting for the relieving squad at Vandeventer avenue and Natural Bridge road, when a large stone attracted his attention. He sat down and soon was asleep.

Sergeant Thomas O'Meara, in charge of the relieving platoon, did not see Smith, and after an hour's search reported his absence to Lieut. Walsh. A messenger was sent to Smith's home, 524A Patton avenue, but Smith was not there.

At 1:30 a. m. Smith telephoned the station.

"I've been asleep," he said. "I sat down on a rock near the National League Baseball Park and before I knew it I was out."

"Napping at the base, eh?" remarked
Walsh.

"Well, I played a double-header, you know," replied Smith. "I was on the 1 to 3 watch yesterday and in the afternoon I was shifted to the 3 to 11 watch.
I was tired out."

"Come to the clubhouse—I mean the station, and make a report," ordered Walsh.

TWO BABIES ARE SAVED FROM DEATH
UNDER CAR WHEELS

Little Girl Rescued After Motor-man Wrecks Trolley by Sudden Stop.

BOY CAUGHT IN FENDER

Broken Finger Is Only Injury
After Speeding Car Hits Him.

A United Railways motorman Friday afternoon saved a baby girl's life by stopping his car so suddenly that it nearly stood on end and passengers were thrown out of their seats. This prompt rescue followed the almost equally quick work of another motorman who dropped his fender and picked up a boy.

Mary Loretta, 21-months-old daughter of John Loretta of 3835 Kossuth avenue, ran in front of a westbound Lee avenue car. Motorman Michael Sterpa had no time to drop his fender when he saw the child on the track. He did the only thing that remained. Putting on his emergency brakes he stopped the car in a flash.

Horrified spectators saw the child roll
under the car.

The sudden stop caused the front of the car to plunge downward and plow up the dirt so that it was impossible to see what had befallen the child after she disappeared. Many believed her dead.

A hydraulic jack was used to lift the car. Mary was found seated between the rails. The car had stopped just before the trucks reached her and she was practically unharmed. Dr. G. L.
Thompson found only a few small bruises on her face and shoulders.

Sterpa lives only half a block from the child's home, and she always waved to him as he passed her house. He was in an agony of suspense until the lifting of the car revealed the fact that his baby friend still lived.

Four-year-old Solomon Eckstein of 2101
Carr street owes his life to Motorman
George M. Grimshaw of the Natural Bridge line. Grimshaw dropped the fender and reversed his car after it had run down the child.

Solomon, with only a broken finger and bruised back to indicate his narrow escape from death, held a reception for sympathetic neighbors at his home Friday and lapsed his praise for the big man with the blue coat.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Fannie Eckstein, took him with her when she escapes from the street to visit Mrs. Ida Barnholtz Thursday afternoon. While the women were talking, Solomon slipped from the house and started back home.

HOLD-UP MEN USE

Rob Robert C. Wright of $19

mere Road.

100 YARDS FROM HOME

Unlighted Street Gives Thugs Chance to Escape After Man's Pockets Are Rifled.

In the deep darkness of Windmere road, an unlighted private street in the Cabanne residence district, Robert C.
Wright of 39 Windmere place was stopped by two men at 10:45 p. m.
Thursday, and was robbed of $19 and his watch.

Wright, who is the son of John H.
Wright, president of the T. Wright &
Co. Cigar Co., was within 100 yards of his home at the time of the robbery.

Windmere way, the footpath which runs north from Delmar boulevard, leads into Windmere road, which extends to Windmere place.

Wright was half-way between Von Versen and Clemens avenue when the two men stepped out of an alley and one gave the order:

"Hold up your hands."

"O, very well," replied Wright, whose first thought was that the two were joking youths of the neighborhood. But he did not obey the command.

A flashlight dazzled him, and a voice growled in his ear:

"Say, we're out for business. Put 'em up now, or we'll plug you."

Then Wright saw a revolver in the man's hand, and he did as he was told.
A moment later, as he saw his purse and watch drop into the other high-wayman's pocket, the man with the revolver ordered him to keep his hands up and walk straight ahead.

Wright looked back after going a short distance, but the men had vanished. He said Friday that he could not describe the men accurately. He valued the watch at $40.

MOB IN EDGE OF MEMPHIS LYNCHES
NEGRO PRISONER

Prisoner Taken From Deputies
After He Had Been Saved
From Being Beaten.

PLANTER'S WIFE ACCUSER

Fifty Men Hang Their Victim and Then Ride Around and Shoot at Body.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 2.—Pat Crump, a negro charged with attempting to attack Mrs. H. L. Whittington, wife of a young cotton planter at White Haven, near Memphis, was hanged by a mob of 50 men half a mile beyond the city limits late last night, and his body was riddled with their bullets as it swung from a limb of a roadside tree.

Mrs. Whittington telephoned to her husband before he got home about the negro's act, after a yard hand had driven Crump away, and he notified the sheriff. A deputy's posse arrested the negro and was on the way to the Memphis jail when the mob, composed of farmers about White Haven, overtook them on the outskirts of town, just as the negro was about to be placed on a street car, and took him.

Three deputies in charge.

Three men, sworn in as deputies by Justice W. S. Knight, had the negro in charge, and they said afterward that they supposed they were beyond danger of a mob. They met several armed men on the pike, who did not offer to molest them. These men proved to be scouts for the main body of the mob.

The deputies went on, unsuspecting.
Presently the whole body of the mob, all the men being mounted, galloped up, and with leveled weapons demanded the negro. The deputies surrendered him.

One of the men, who had provided himself with a stout rope, lassoed the negro with it, and thus, surrounded by his angry captors, he was walked half a mile to an oak tree deemed suitable for the lynching. As his body swung from a limb, members of the mob galloped about it and riddled it with shots.

Some of the men in the mob disarmed the three deputies and took them in an opposite direction from that taken by the main body, then returned, their weapons with instructions to continue their journey alone.

Life Once Was Saved.
Justice Knight says that he saved the negro's life just after he was caught, when enraged farmers had him almost clubbed to death before the Justice and the deputies arrived.

This was the first lynching in Memphis or this immediate vicinity in 30 years.

TIN CAN ROUNDUP
TO BEAUTIFY CITY

East St. Louis Merchant Would Offer Prizes for Big Collections.

The goats of East St. Louis will have a hard time getting a living if Rudolph Schaefer's plan to rid the city of the tin can nuisance becomes effective.

He proposes to offer $75 worth of bicycles as prizes to the boys who gather the greatest number of tin cans from alleys and side streets. Chief of Police Thompson said Friday he would consult Dr. Short, Health Commissioner, and Street Commissioner Wuerch, and if they approved Schaefer's plan he would take steps to select several vacant lots as depositories for the cans.

After the cans are collected they will be used for building streets in the low sections of the city, or sold to dealers.
Several East St. Louis streets have tin can foundations. Schaefer is a bicycle dealer.

SHERIFF TO SELL
FAMOUS PAINTING

Picture of De Moss Estate, Long Lost, Was Found in City Art Museum.

Sheriff Nolte, by order of the Circuit Court, will offer for sale at the courthouse, June 5, a famous painting, known as the "Embarkation of Emigrants at Antwerp." The painting, by Edgar Farasyn, a Belgian, belongs to the estate of Joseph S. de Moss.

It has been on exhibition in various art galleries for years, and its whereabouts was unknown to heirs of the estate.

Recently one of them saw it in the St.
Louis Art Museum, after which suit for its recovery was begun. The court directed that the painting be sold. The proceeds will be distributed among the De Moss heirs.

Man Who Rents a Home to

When Mrs. Frances Waytus and N.
Borovitz of East St. Louis decided to get married they had not reckoned with Illinois laws and confidence men.

They went to the marriage license office Thursday and made application for a permit to marry. When Clerk Leon Smith found that Mrs. Waytus had been divorced a month ago he refused the license, as a divorced person cannot marry in Illinois until a year elapses.

"Oh, very well," Mrs. Waytus said,
"we will go over to St. Louis, where they don't have foolish laws, and get married."

On their way they decided to find a boarding house before being married.
Seeing a sign on Collinsville avenue,
they stopped to investigate.

An obliging man, who represented himself as the proprietor of the boarding house, showed them the rooms.
They agreed to take one at $6 a month and handed him a $10 bill to change.

"I will have to run out and get this changed," the man said.

Mrs. Waytus and Borovitz waited two hours for him to return. Then they reported to the police that they had been deceived and that they could not get their money back unless they recovered it.

TAKES FARE OUT OF MAN'S HIDE,
AND IS FINED $15

Conductor Has No Right to Use
Fists Even Though Invited, Police Court Ruling.

If a passenger cannot find his transfer in his pockets, the conductor is not allowed to try and pick the fare out of the passenger's hide, even on the passenger's invitation, Judge Sanders decided in the Dayton Street Police Court Friday.

Edward Leonard, 1070 Hodlamont avenue, conductor on the Union line, told Judge Sanders that John Condon, 2435
Plover avenue, boarded his car at 3 a.
m. on the morning of May 22, and taking a stand on the back platform began to search his pockets for a transfer. When Leonard had collected the other fares he says he asked Condon:

"Did you find it?"

"No," he said Condon replied, "it isn't in my pockets. You'll have to take it out of my hide."

Leonard tried hard to get it out of Condon's hide. He knocked him off the platform, followed him into the street and took an even dozen punches, while Condon came back but once.

Condon told Judge Sanders that he did not say anything about taking the fare in his hide, but when he could not find the transfer offered the conductor a $5 bill. He said the conductor became enraged at the sight of so much money. Judge Sanders fined the conductor $15.

PASTOR GOW STARTS TO SERVE FOUR YEARS

Minister Was Convicted on the Accusation of a School Teacher Who Died.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 2.—The Rev.
Clyde Gow, who was received at the penitentiary early in the week, was today assigned to work in the chapel under supervision of Chaplain Martin.

Gow was sentenced from Lincoln County to serve four years in the penitentiary for causing the death of Miss Lillian Gleason, a school teacher of Es-terry, Mo., as the result of an operation. He filed a motion as a poor person in Division No. 2 of the Supreme Court today for a rehearing. This division of the court affirmed Gow's sentence some ten days ago.

As the judges of the court were unanimous in affirming the judgment against Gow, the chances for a new trial are slight.

STEEL MEN OF WHOLE WORLD TO DISCUSS TRADE

Corporation Chief Says Problem Is Not Making a Profit, but Knowing What a Concern May Do Under Uncertain Laws, and Archaic Sherman Statute.

STEEL RAILS ARE TO BE ADVANCED

Present Price Cannot Be Maintained, He Asserts, Acknowledging Trust
Steers a Careful Course Between the Law and a Ruinous Competition
Among Manufacturers.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 2.—Elbert H.
Gary, chief executive officer of the United States Steel Corporation, resuming his testimony before the House
"Steel Trust" Investigating Committee today, denounced the Sherman antitrust law as archaic and declared that governmental control of corporations, which he favored, eventually would come.

Mr. Gary asserted that the steel corporation would welcome such a change and would be glad if the Government would go so far as to dictate the prices of steel products.

In explanation of the reported worldwide "trust" Mr. Gary said that a conference would be held in Brusa July 5 and 6 next to organize an international steel institute similar to the American Iron & Steel Institute. T latter, he asserted, was formed to prevent demonstration in trade and permit an exchange of ideas for a betterment of the steel industry.

In no instance, Mr. Gary said, has there been any attempt at an unlawful combination or an expressed or implied agreement.

Mr. Gary said he would do all could, morally and legally, to further the proposed international institute.

Increased prices are to be charged for steel rails in the near future, according to Mr. Gary. Higher cost of labor and raw material, together with a demand for heavier rails, was given as the reason for the proposed advance.

Must Control Even Prices.
Soon after the committee met today,
Mr. Gary declared that enforced publicity and Government control of corporations must come, even as to prices.
He said he believed the Sherman anti-trust law was too archaic to deal with modern situations and never could fully prevent great combinations of capital.

What the United States Steel Corporation wanted, he said, was some sensible and official development of government to whom it could go and say "what prices can we charge and just what can we do?"

"Personally I believe the Sherman act," said Mr. Gary, "does not move and never will fully prevent the becoming of great combinations of capital. I believe we must come to enforced publicity and governmental control of corporations."

"Do you mean Government control as to prices?" Mr. Stanley asked.

"Yes, even as to prices. So far as I am concerned, speaking for the United States Steel Corporation, I would be very glad if we could know exactly where we stand and could be free from the dangers and criticism of the public to whom we could go and say 'what prices can we charge and just what can we do?'"

Mr. Gary said the real problem was not the making of big profits, but it was rather the establishment of a definite understanding of the legal situation. Sherman Law Archaisms.

"Do I understand that you believe in strict governmental supervision of corporations?" asked Representative Littleton of New York.

"Yes, I do," said Mr. Gary. "I know that is a radical position, but something must be done."

"Is it your conviction," Mr. Littleton inquired, "that the Sherman an-trust law is archaic and unable to deal with the modern situation?"

"Yes,"

"Do not the interpretations of the law practically order a continuance of the old competitive system as opposed to co-operative modern methods?"

"I am afraid they do," Mr. Gary replied. "We don't want a condition

ROPLANE WITH TWO MEN FALLS IN PARIS-TURIN RACE

Lieut. Lucca and His Passenger Each Has Broken Leg and Machine Is Ruined.

LEADERS ARE IN ROME

Garros and Beaumont Jockeying for Start on Last and Most Difficult Stage.

Associated Press.
HYERES, France, June 2.—Lieut. Lucca, of the French army and his passenger, M. Hennequin, had a narrow escape from death today while attempting to conclude the first stage of the Paris-Rome-Turin aeroplane race. Each man suffered a broken leg. The aeroplane was demolished.

The Lieutenants were under orders from the Ministry of War to accompany the contestants in the air race on the first leg from Paris to Nice.

On leaving Avignon yesterday he lost his way in the fog, and finally, after wandering for a considerable distance out of his course, landed at Marseilles.

This morning the Lieutenants resumed their flight toward Nice. He made a superb start and the aeroplane was going well as it passed over this city. A short time later, however, the aviator returned to the aerodrome at Hyeres for the purpose of adjusting his motor.

He reascended, and when a short distance from the ground the machine veered sharply and was capsized.

Attendants rushed up and the two men were taken from under the wreckage and sent to a hospital.

GARROS INJURED FLIES ON HIS NERVE

American Representative Helped Into Committee Room at Italian Capital.

ROME, June 2.—Andre Beaumont and Roland Garros are watching the weather and one another today, each hoping to be the first away on the last leg of the race.

Beaumont, who arrived Wednesday, is resting preparatory to essaying the Rome-to-Turin stage, distance of 600 kilometers (361 miles). Garros, unfortunately, is in bad physical condition.

The wrecking of his aeroplane near Pisa resulted in quite serious injuries to the aviator, but he pluckily climbed into the seat of a new machine yesterday and swept away along the Mediterranean coast at fast speed for Rome.

Great crowds had gathered to witness his coming, but Garros almost collapsed when he landed. He said he felt very ill and could scarcely walk. It was necessary to help him to the committee room. Garros explained that he suffered greatly from his fall. His right shoulder had been injured and the hurt was aggravated by the exertion of the flight. It was apparent that he was suffering acute pain.

of his arrival, shed to greet him. The vast crowd first into cheers when the friendly rivals appeared on the balcony grasping hands. It is probable that Beaumont will start on the last leg of the journey before Garros, who, if he continues to improve, will do so only by reason of sheer grit. Frey, the German representative, who also was injured by the wrecking of his machine near Pisa, is still awaiting a new machine there.

New Aeroplane Falls, Aviator's Hip Broken.

Frey and Vidari in Trouble Near Pisa.

PISA, June 2.—Aviator Frey, representing Germany in the 190-mile Paris-to-Turin air race, spent the whole of his morning trying to repair his machine for resuming his flight from Pisa.

Vidari, who broke the left wing of his aeroplane on making a landing at Cecina, 35 miles south of Pisa, yesterday, returned here today and is awaiting the arrival of a new machine.

Jerry's 38 Papas Will Educate Him; One Gives His Sister a Home, Too

Rules of Conduct for Lad Laid Down by Firemen Who Adopt Him, Will Keep Him Busy From 7 A. M. Until Bedtime at 9.

The 38 papas of Jerry Hurley met at the fire engine house at 415 South Broadway and considered the question, "What will we have Jerry grow up to be?"

The result of the conference was announced to a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday, by a group of the papas, with Lieut. Tom Minahan acting as spokesman.

"We have decided," said Minahan, "to leave the choice of a vocation to Jerry himself. It is the unanimous opinion of his fathers that he should first go through the common schools and then be graduated from high school before determining what he shall take up in the way of a life occupation."

Home for Jerry's Sister.

Jerry Hurley, 12 years old, is the legally adopted son of Fire Engine Co. No. 15, which has 38 members—thus conferring on Jerry the unique distinction of a boy with 38 papas.

It is known Thursday that the company had legally adopted Jerry after the boy's mother, in the Clark Avenue Police Court, had been ordered sent to the House of the Good Shepherd, because it had been proved she could not care for him properly.

Judge McQuillin of the Juvenile Court approved the adoption of Jerry by the 38 firemen. Judge McQuillin also gave Mary Hurley, Jerry's 10-year-old sister, into the keeping of Lee Smith, one of Jerry's 38 papas at the engine house.

Lee Smith is to have full jurisdiction over Mary, who will live at his home at 222 Washington avenue, but he will share the jurisdiction of Jerry with his 37 firemen comrades.

Nursed Him When He Was Ill.

Jerry's mother and his four brothers and sisters lived at 313 South Broadway, just a block from the fire engine house. His mother, who is a victim of drink, was seldom at home and the court held that the children were neglected. For the last year and a half Jerry has slept almost every night at the engine house.

The firemen first took Jerry in to make his home with them when they found him sick. They put him in one of the vacant beds and nursed him through his illness. When he was well Jerry went back to his other home. But soon Jerry was run over by a wagon in the street and had nobody to care for him and so the firemen took him in again.

Jerry showed his gratitude when he got better by running errands for the firemen. He went for their coffee for breakfast and helped prepare their soup for lunch. So the firemen decided that Jerry might just as well make his home altogether with them.

Curriculum for Jerry.

It was Fireman Lee Smith who proposed that the company get legal custody of Jerry through the Juvenile Court. All the others strongly seconded Smith's suggestion and they had District Chief William Busch, who is stationed at No. 15's engine house, get Chief Swingley's consent.

At first Jerry's 38 papas made no demands as to what his conduct should be, but now that he is legally their son they have formulated a curriculum which they think is reasonable and which Jerry says is agreeable to him.

Division of Jerry's Day.

The firemen have divided their son Jerry's day as follows:

7 a. m.—Jump out of bed quickly and run to the restaurant for the coffee for the firemen.

7:15 a. m.—Breakfast with the firemen.

7:15 to 8:30 a. m.—Amuse himself as he pleases.

8:30 a. m. to noon.—Attend school.

Noon.—Report at the engine house for lunch and if anything is needed at the grocer's for the soup, get it.

Afternoon.—Attend school.

After school—Look around the engine house to see whether any of the firemen's caps or coats are out of place.

After dinner—Play with the other boys in the neighborhood or study.

Boys Jealous of Him.

Jerry thinks his home with the firemen is a kind of paradise. Some of the other boys in the neighborhood are jealous of him. About the only thing he can't do is to ride on the wagons to fires. The firemen fear he might be hurt in a collision. But he can stand right under the bell when it's ringing in a fire and then watch the wagons and the engines dash out.

"I get all I want to eat now," he told a Post-Dispatch reporter, "and I have good clothes and they'll get me anything else I want. I used to be dirty all the time, but they made me wash up and it feels a whole lot better when you get used to it."

ELECTION BOARD PUTS BRIDGE VOTE UP TO COUNSELOR

Asks Walther Whether Major's Ruling Against Two Elections Applies Here.

The Board of Election Commissioners met Friday to decide whether Attorney-General Major's opinion, that no special elections can be held in any city or county Aug. 1, in conjunction with the State capital bond issue election, applies to St. Louis.

The board took no action. It has asked City Counselor Walther for an opinion on the subject. The board members are of the opinion that Major's ruling will not apply to St. Louis.

Under Major's ruling, the city, to hold its Free Bridge bond issue election Aug. 1, would have to provide separate booths and separate judges and clerks. As the Board of Election Commissioners has but one set of registration books, Chairman Kortjohn said it would be impossible to hold two elections the same day.

The cost of a special bond issue election would be about $60,000. The election board has fixed June 15 as the date for registration for the bond issue election.

Louis, as special election laws are in force here.

The Municipal Assembly of St. Louis has passed an ordinance calling a special election Aug. 1 to vote on a proposition to issue $1,250,000 additional bonds to complete the Free Bridge. It was intended to hold the elections the same day, thereby greatly reducing the cost.

The Attorney-General held that the Legislature had called the capital bond issue election on a special day, and had provided for the use of special election machinery, inadequate for general elections.

James E. Bennett, president of the Chicago Board of Trade firm of James E. Bennett & Co., which defaulted on 25,000 bushels of short wheat at the closing of the May deal Wednesday, was in consultation with his local representative, E. W. Lansing and W. E. Lanyon, on change Friday.

Bennett represented Lanyon in his spectacular May wheat deal, in which he is credited with losing more than $40,000 by being short in the Chicago market, against long holdings of cash grain in St. Louis.

When asked by a Post-Dispatch reporter what complications might arise from his default on contracts, Bennett seemed nettled.

"I'm here on personal business and have nothing to give out for publication," he said. "What happened in Chicago involves nobody but myself and Mr. Lanyon. The Board of Trade is investigating our default. That must show why we took the action we did."

CHILD BEGS FOR MOTHER'S LIFE AS FATHER STABS HER

Quarrel After Mrs. Gilliam Appeared in Court Against Husband Ends in Attack.

WOUND NOT SERIOUS

Little Girl's Screams and Woman's Call for Help Put Assaultant to Flight.

Five-year-old Minnie Gilliam, kneeling Thursday evening in her nightgown at 1800 South Thirteenth street, besought her father, Lawrence, not to kill Mrs. Minnie Gilliam, her mother. The parents had been separated a week.

The Gilliams live in Walnut Park, and Mrs. Gilliam, after having her husband arrested on a charge that he beat her, left him three weeks ago; but they were reconciled, and she dropped the charge. A week ago she left him again, and went to the Thirteenth street address to live with Mrs. Mary Bulka, an aunt. Gilliam went to the house at 2:30 p. m. and, after Mrs. Bulka admitted him, demanded the child and asked for her mother.

Mrs. Gilliam heard him, and when she called to him he began quarreling with her, she says, over having caused his arrest. When Gilliam struck his wife she and Mrs. Bulka screamed, and Miss Annie Strich, who boards there, went out to look for a policeman. The screams awakened Minnie, who fell on her knees, begging her father to desist.

Gilliam drew a pocket knife and stabbed his wife with it. The blade cut a long gash about a quarter of an inch deep. Then Gilliam fled before Miss Strich returned with a policeman from the Soudard street station. A physician treated Mrs. Gilliam and said the wound was not dangerous. Mrs. Gilliam was married when she was 15, and is now 21 years old. Her husband is 24.

SHE WOULDN'T WED WITHOUT A RING

So Elopers Have to Come Back to St. Louis From Clayton, Then Go to Maplewood.

Thomas Marshall of 214 South Lexington avenue and Miss Mabel Ryan of 1513 South Jefferson avenue, who had intended to be married in Clayton, were forced to go to Maplewood to have the knot tied because Marshall forgot the bride's wedding ring. Marshall and his fiancée planned Tuesday to elope. Miss Ryan complained of a toothache Wednesday morning, and told her mother she would not work that day. Later Marshall called and Miss Ryan dressed to go out. She told her mother she had changed her mind and would go to her place of employment.

Instead the couple took a car for Clayton and obtained a marriage license. They visited a justice's office, and then it was Marshall discovered that he had forgotten the ring. Miss Ryan refused to be married without it and they journeyed back to St. Louis. Later in the evening another trip to Clayton was made. This time no justices were available and a trip to Maplewood followed. There Justice James C. Rasland hurried the ceremony, as the bride expressed a preference for a May rather than a June wedding. The ceremony was completed two minutes before midnight.

Boys No Longer Appear at Circus After Factory Inspector's Complaint.

Upon assurance from the management of the Barnum & Bailey Circus that a contract with the parents of the Taylor triplets—William, Jennings and Bryan—has been canceled, officers of the Juvenile Court have dropped proceedings to have the children declared neglected.

The boys, who are but 11 years old, have been appearing twice daily in a boxing bout. The parents signed a contract with the show in Brooklyn and were to receive $40 a week with board and transportation for the boys and their father and mother.

Complaint was lodged with the Juvenile Court by Factory Inspector Williams, who declares the boys are but 11 years old, although the parents claim they are 16. The triplets were born in St. Louis in 1900. Factory Inspector Williams says, and were prohibited from playing in nickel odeons here on account of their youth.

ABOUT THE MOUTH AND TEETH The mouth is the prime factor of beauty and the most expressive feature of the human countenance. The whole face loses its charm if the mouth exhibits a lot of decayed, unsightly teeth. You can keep your countenance beautiful if your teeth are properly cared for. "Tooth pullers" will destroy the beauty of the teeth, but a reliable dentist will improve your looks by saving your teeth instead of destroying them. It would seem that everyone would want nothing but the best in dentistry, but many people will sacrifice lasting quality for low price and in the end the work is no good.

GARY DECLARES NATION MUST RULE BIG CORPORATIONS

Chief Executive of the Steel Trust Says His Concern Wants Some One Even to Rule on What Prices It May Charge for Its Output.

Roosevelt Favors Federal Trust Curb

NEW YORK, June 2. THEODORE ROOSEVELT, contributing editor of the Outlook, has an article in this week's issue of that publication in which he takes a pessimistic view of the trust prosecutions, and declares that the only solution to the problem is national supervision, rigid and complete, such as is exercised over interstate railroads.

Any endeavor to amend the present anti-trust law and make it more severe would be futile, he says, because it would only cause greater delay. He holds Federal control is the only way out.

uncertainty in which we don't know just what we have a right to do."

Little Men Cut Prices.

Representative Young of Michigan asked Mr. Gary if he thought the national Government had a right to fix prices of commodities in interstate commerce.

"My opinion," said Mr. Gary, "is that so far as it relates to interstate commerce the Federal Government has that right."

Mr. Gary, asked if the United States Steel Corporation was in a position to fix prices, said that co-operative business methods, which had succeeded highly competitive methods, had made it possible for the big corporation to influence prices.

"We cannot dominate them," he said. "It is not the big corporations that change prices, so much as the small corporations that cut prices and force the big ones to come down."

"Taking up the subject of the reported international 'trust' and the Gary dinner, at which it had been intimated that the Gary dinner was fixed, Mr. Gary said:

"At the time of the panic in 1907 there was great demoralization, temporarily, the steel business. The four executives at it would extend and become dangerous. The iron and steel industry has been recognized as one of the leading barometers of trade. It was believed highly important, if practicable, to prevent a greater demoralization in 1907."

Planned to Insure Stability.

The situation, he explained, caused others all over the country to appeal to the corporation to do something to prevent business chaos. Mr. Gary said the steel men of the country asked in New York at a dinner business business conditions.

He said these dinners of consultation had proved so beneficial in maintaining the stability of reasonable prices that representatives of the steel interests would meet at Brussels July 6 next to determine whether international steel institute should be organized. He said he would participate in the organization of this institute unless he became convinced that morally or legally it would not be well to form such an organization.

In elaborating the idea of the "Gary Dinner," the chief executive of the Steel corporation explained that when the panic came the jobbers held large quantities of material for resale and if prices were reduced failures were certain, and a prolonged panic ensued.

"The United States Steel Corporation, with 10 per cent of the steel business of the country," said Mr. Gary, "thus was confronted with two propositions."

The Trust's Problem.

"We had no right to endeavor to prevent a reduction in prices and maintain the equilibrium of business by means of an expressed or implied agreement, nor had we a lawful right to agree with our competitors to maintain prices."

"On the other hand, we believed that we had no moral or legal right to become involved in a bitter and destructive competition such as follows any kind of depression in the iron and steel industry, for the reason that if we did it would mean a war for survival of the fittest, and many persons engaged in the business would be forced into bankruptcy."

"Therefore, it was believed, by me, at least, that it was not for the best interest of the manufacturers or the laborers or the people generally that prices be reduced. The question was, how to get between the two extremes, one of securing a monopoly by driving out competition in a bitter fight, the other of maintaining prices without making an agreement, expressed or implied."

"I have saved the day."

"I have saved the day," said Mr. Gary, "by inviting a large percentage of the steel interests of the country to meet at New York and I presented to them the Gary dinner."

He said he told the exact situation and a remedy which was accepted by the steel men as wise.

"I suggested that the only way we could really prevent such demoralization and maintain reasonable business was for the steel men to come together occasionally and discuss to each other all the circumstances of their business."

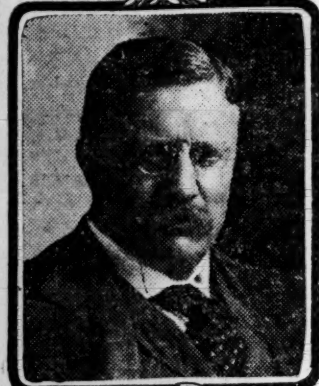

Interference was done and continued and prevented demoralization. We have not done more than that because we could not do more."

Mr. Stanley directed Judge Gary's attention to the question of the Gary dinner.

The latter denied that his organization controlled the ultimate supply of iron in the United States despite a statement in 1905 to the Ways and

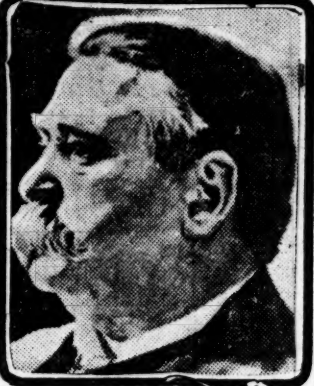

ROOSEVELT vs. GATES

On the Reason for the Sale of Tennessee Coal and Iron to the Steel Trust.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Roosevelt Wrote That Trust Didn't Want to Buy the Concern Except to Avert a Panic—Gates Testified the Trust Tried to Buy a Year Earlier at an Advance Over the Eventual Forced Sale Price.

JOHN W. GATES.

WHEN John W. Gates was testifying before the congressional committee which is investigating the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Co. by the Steel Trust, Chairman Stanley read to Gates Theodore Roosevelt's famous letter of Nov. 4, 1907, to Attorney-General Bonaparte, in which Roosevelt said Frick and Gary wanted to buy the Tennessee Coal and Iron Co. to prevent a panic. Gates was asked what he knew about the deal. He disclaimed any knowledge of the philanthropic motives ascribed to Frick and Gary, saying that he was on the ocean at that time. The Roosevelt letter and Gates' version of the reason for the sale and its terms follows:

The Roosevelt Letter.

THE WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON.

Nov. 4, 1907.

MY Dear Mr. Attorney General: Judge E. H. Gary and Mr. H. C. Frick, on behalf of the Steel Corporation, have just called upon me. They state that there is a certain business firm, the name of which I have not been told, but which is of real importance in New York business circles) will undoubtedly fail this week if help is not given.

Among its assets are a majority of the securities of the Tennessee Coal Co. Application has been made to the Steel Corporation to purchase this stock as the only means of avoiding a failure.

Judge Gary and Mr. Frick inform me that as a mere business transaction they do not care to purchase the stock; that under ordinary circumstances they would not consider purchasing the stock because but little benefit will come to the Steel Corporation from the purchase; that they are aware that the purchase will be used as a handle for attack upon them on the ground that they are striving to secure a monopoly of the business and prevent competition—not that this would represent what could honestly be said, but what might recklessly and untruthfully be said.

THE policy of the company has been to decline to acquire more than 60 per cent of the steel properties, and that this purpose has been persevered in for several years past, with the object of preventing these accusations, and as a matter of fact their proportion of steel properties has slightly decreased, so that it is below this 60 per cent, and the acquisition of the property in question will not raise it above 60 per cent. But they feel that it is immensely to their interests, as to the interest of every responsible business man to try to prevent a panic and general industrial smashup at this time, and that they are willing to go into this transaction, which they would not otherwise go into, because it seems the opinion of those best fitted to express judgment in New York that it will be an important factor in preventing a break that might be ruinous; and that this has been urged upon them by the combination of the most responsible bankers in New York who are now so engaged in endeavoring to save the situation. But they asserted they did not wish to do this if I stated that it ought not to be done. I answered that while of course I could not advise them to take the action proposed, I felt it no public duty of mine to interpose any objection. Sincerely yours,

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Hon. Charles J. Bonaparte, Attorney-General.

is the way Miss Ada Abel, of West Baden, Ind., summed up her existence after having sought in vain for health. She writes: "I was a complete wreck—always tired, worn out and nervous. I had to spend about one-third of my time in bed, and my life was not worth living."

"What Vinol, your delicious cod liver and iron tonic, was recommended, and I can truly say it has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took in my life. That nervous and tired feeling is all gone. I have gained in health, flesh and strength, until I feel like another person." (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

What Vinol did for Miss Abel, we know it will do for every nervous, run-down, overworked, tired, thin and discouraged woman in this vicinity.

FROM GATES' TESTIMONY.

"ON my return to the United States in November, 1907, I found the country in a panic. I picked up a paper and saw that Tennessee Coal and Iron Co. stock had gone down. At my hotel I found a note from Charles S. Guthrie asking me to call at his office on Fifth avenue. I went."

"I found that Frick, Morgan and Gary were trying to purchase the Tennessee Coal and Iron Co. from Schley, Hanna and their associates. All of them were at Morgan's home in conference."

"Some one asked me over the telephone if I would take the offer made for our stock. Morgan wanted to acquire the Tennessee Coal and Iron Co. by exchanging United States Steel second mortgage 5 per cent bonds for its stock on the basis of par. I said that that was not enough. After three or four hours dickering over the telephone we agreed upon a basis of 115% for our stock and took United States Steel sinking fund 5%."

"A CERTAIN New York banking house, I was told was in the United States Steel Corporation purchased the securities of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Co. It was for the purpose of helping this concern that our company was forced to sell. In the exchange of securities, however, not a dollar changed hands."

"I would make affidavit to the effect that the United States Steel Corporation purchased the Tennessee Coal and Iron Co. at a great bargain. I did not desire to sell. No money changed hands when the deal was consummated. It was a shifting of securities."

"I regarded the sale of the Tennessee corporation as a forced sale. I did not have to sell. My surprise is that the deal was forced by the finding of a large amount of collateral in the Trust Company of America. I would say that we lost at least $10 to $15 a share."

"I think that Mr. Morgan offered Mr. Kessler of our syndicate 150 per share for our stock (note—this was in 1906), the next year we had to sell for 115%."

Government control," said Mr. Gary. "You think then the time has come when we must surrender the competitive method in business for acceptance of a new policy in big business affairs?"

Chairman Stanley asked Mr. Gary if, under Government control, business interests could stop short of absolute Government ownership.

"I think it can be done," Mr. Gary answered. "The banks and railroads have done it to a certain extent. The banks have only gone to the extent of absolute public utility and that demonstrates the legal right of the Government to control business corporations."

Mr. Littleton asked the witness if the United States Steel Corporation could effect a dissolution of its subsidiary companies and absorb them into one great operating company under one head.

"Yes, we could and readily would if by law or suggestion from official sources we could see the way clear."

LAWYER BRINGS HIS TONSILS INTO COURT

Exhibit in a Bottle Wins Postponement of His Client's Case.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Attorney Henry Walker entered Judge W. E. Dever's court, carrying a small parcel. The attorney was there to defend a young woman accused of shoplifting.

He carefully unwrapped the package and disclosed a tightly corked bottle with some substances preserved therein. When the case was called Attorney Walker arose and began to gesticulate wildly with his hands. No sound came from his lips.

"What's the matter with you?" asked the Judge.

There was further gesticulation, but still not a word came from Walker.

"Write it," suggested the Judge.

Here's what Walker wrote tonsils out of. They are in that bottle on the table. Brought them in as an exhibit in the case. Can't talk. Want a postponement."

"Case continued for two weeks," said Judge Dever.

JOHN M. HEALY'S FINGERPRINTS ARE TAKEN BY POLICE

Preparations Made to Take Former Secretary to Prison Saturday.

One of 33 prisoners who are to be transferred from jail to the penitentiary Saturday attracted unusual attention as they were being measured and photographed for the Bureau of Identification Friday. He was John M. Healy, former secretary of the Police Relief Association, who pleaded guilty to embezzling more than $10,000 of the organization's funds and was sentenced to five years' imprisonment.

"Is it necessary to put me through this?" he asked, as Supt. Shea of the Benthall system prepared to take his first mug shot.

"It's the rule, John," replied Shea. "Well, I'm not going to run away," replied the prisoner.

As Healy was being led back to jail from police headquarters he was escorted by a police officer and a deputy sheriff. At the Four Courts since he was sentenced a month ago. She said the meeting was accidental; as she was in the neighborhood seeking Judge C. O. Rick Bishop, who, with Joseph D. Howe, was an attorney for Healy.

"I'll be in to see you later on," she said, as her husband and the Deputy Sheriff having him in custody resumed their journey.

Austin Greaves, who defended himself from a charge of murder and was sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment, is among those who will be taken to Jefferson City Saturday.

SLAYER PLANNED TO KILL MRS. MORAN

A letter found in Albert Shale's pocket, and written a short time before Shale killed Mrs. Katherine Moran and himself in her boarding house, at 1927 Olive street, was read Friday at the Coroner's inquest into the double tragedy.

The letter was addressed to Mrs. Dudley Winkler, Shale's sister, living in Austin, D. C., a suburb of Washington, and read:

"This is the last letter you will get from me. I couldn't get along with Kate any more. She has no use for me. My money is all gone. I found her with another man, ALBERT. Raymond Moran, the woman's son, who witnessed the tragedy, retold the story which he told in an interview in Thursday's Post-Dispatch. A verdict of homicide and suicide was returned.

After the inquest he went with a policeman to the morgue, and, without showing any particular emotion, took a farewell view of his mother's body.

WEDS MAN HELD AS A MURDER SUSPECT

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 2.—Although being held by the police as a suspect in a murder case, Joseph N. Beaman of Corpus Christi, Tex., was last night married to Mrs. Blanche Tompkins of Iowa. Beaman says he can prove he was in Iowa at the time of the murder, which was committed in Elford, Ill. He was arrested here last Monday.

Mrs. Beaman is confident of her husband's innocence. She arranged all the details of the wedding and met Beaman at a justice court, where he had been taken from the county jail by a deputy sheriff. The justice married them.

Thin Blood Means Failure

The man or woman whose blood is thin cannot succeed. Rich, red blood means energy, courage, strong nerves, will power, the elements that go to make health and happiness. It means a large measure of success in life. Thin blood means debility, weak nerves, poor appetite, sleeplessness, conditions that so handicap the victim that failure is certain.

Whether the sufferer is a man engaged in business or a woman concerned with housekeeping or social duties, he or she will be unequal to the obligations imposed, behind in the day's work, helpless and hopeless as the burden of things left undone accumulates. You know plenty of such men and women. Do you recognize that the thin blood shown by their sallow complexions is largely responsible for their failure? ARE YOU ONE OF THEM? Do you realize the need of a better, healthier supply of blood? Read this enthusiastic statement of one who realized in time.

Mrs. C. H. Myers of No. 105 West Cedar avenue, Enid, Okla., whose husband is a building contractor, says: "About eight years ago when I was living at Hutchinson, Kan., I became generally run down and my blood was turning to water. I was pale, weak and emaciated and lacked energy to do my work. I had severe pains through the back and at times was in bed for a day or so and once for three weeks. The doctor's medicine helped me for a time only but I was not cured. I said that I was suffering from general debility and bloodlessness. A friend, who had been cured of debility by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, urged me to try them. I was cured after taking a few boxes. I have used the pills in my family whenever a tonic was needed and have never had to call a physician since."

Thin blood, if neglected, will sooner or later result in serious illness. It may develop into persistent anaemia, consumption, rheumatism, or it may result in a nervous disorder such as partial paralysis. The remedy is to build up the blood, and there is no blood builder to compare with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

A valuable booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," containing helpful information will be sent upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes, $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR PALE PEOPLE

SKULL FRACTURES ARE DETECTED BY TICKLING ANKLES

New Method, Discovered by Dr. C. G. Chaddock, Now in Use at City Hospital.

St. Louis neurologists are displaying great interest in the discovery, made by Dr. C. G. Chaddock, that fractures of the skull can be detected by tickling the ankle at a certain point.

The method is now in use at the city hospital, Dr. Chaddock being one of the hospital's visiting staff. Dr. Chaddock explained it to the Neurological Society at a meeting last Monday night.

There is a scientific explanation of the matter, which Dr. Chaddock declared Friday was too complicated to explain. The phenomenon, as explained in terms comprehensible by the layman, is that when a certain point on the inside of the ankle, about a half inch above the sole, is gently agitated the toes turn, either together or apart.

If the toes all turn downward and draw closely together, the skull is all right. If the big toe turns upward and the others spread out, the skull is fractured.

This is because of a connection between the brain and that particular point in the ankle, Dr. Chaddock says. This connection is a reflex, but a skull fracture, exposing the brain, turns the reflex to a reflexion and causes a different reaction on the toes when the ankle is tickled.

Physicians have known of this connection, but heretofore have been unable to find a point where the test would always work out. Dr. Chaddock says his discovery was made as the result of careful observation, supplementing the experiments of others, and that the correctness of his result has been proven in several cases in the last few weeks.

FILE FREES A STAGE VILLAIN, HANDCUFFED

Carl Becker Escorts Girl Home in St. Charles Before Writs Are Released.

Carl Becker, a make-believe villain, was so securely handcuffed in a dramatic performance at St. Charles that he had to get a deputy sheriff to free him.

Becker is an official villain of the Clover Leaf Dramatic Club. In the production of "The Old Dairy Farm" Thursday night he was a particularly villainous schemer and ex-convict, and he made himself so objectionable that in the last act it was necessary to arrest him and handcuff him. When the villain thus foiled again, the curtain descended on the triumph of the Sheriff Hines, who hunted up Deputy Sheriff Hines, who hunted up the handcuffs.

There was no file handy, and as the villain had contracted to "see" Miss Clara Klein home, he "saw" her home handcuffed. Then he hunted up Deputy Sheriff Hines, who hunted up the handcuffs.

TRINITY CHURCH HAS $865,000 INCOME

Richest New York Congregation Holds Real Estate Assessed at $13,700,000.

NEW YORK, June 2.—The annual report of Trinity Church corporation shows that the receipts of the parish for the past year were $865,000, the largest item being $750,000 from real estate rents. Few rents were $16,000. The parish spent $500,000 for new buildings, $340,000 for the maintenance of its 10 churches and 11 schools and $187,000 for taxes. The report records a considerable deficit for the year. Trinity's balance sheet shows that the parish now owns productive property assessed at $13,700,000. These figures do not include the property used for churches, chapels, schools and burying grounds. The number of communicants reported is 860, a slight increase.

KREISMANN NOW CLAIMS 20 IN THE CITY COMMITTEE

18 Enough to Reorganize, and Attempt to Oust Kiel Will Be Made Soon.

SEAMAN PICKED FOR JOB

Present Chairman Charges That Jep Howe Is Trying to Elevate His Protege.

Mayor Kreismann's political supporters will attempt next week to reorganize the Republican City Committee by ousting Henry W. Howe, as chairman and electing James Seaman to succeed him, according to Nat Goldstein, one of the Mayor's champions in the organization.

The Kreismann leaders declare 20 members of the committee are pledged to the reorganization plan. Under the rules of the committee 18 votes are necessary to reorganize.

The plan is the final step in the Mayor's campaign to exterminate Chairman Kiel and his followers. It is charged by Kiel that Jephtha D. Howe, the former political boss, is engineering the fight for Mayor Kreismann with a view of being re-elected chairman of the committee before another political campaign comes on.

Seaman, who is now Jury Commissioner, is a protegee of Howe. He is said to owe his present position largely to the influence of Howe, when he was chairman of the committee. In all of the fights between the Kiel and Kreismann-Howe factions, Seaman has taken sides with the Mayor and Howe.

Kiel says at least 12 members of the committee, and probably 14, will vote against reorganization. It is held that the 12 men in line, he says he can prevent reorganization, but the Kreismann faction does not concede that more than seven members of the organization will stand with Kiel. One member of the committee, Congressman L. C. Dyer, is in Washington, and it is not likely he will come here to vote.

Mayor Wins Anderson, the Kreismann faction recently won over Committee member Peter Anderson, who had long been one of Kiel's strongest supporters. Anderson is Inspector of Weights and Measures, and had a few jobs to give out, but not enough to satisfy the demands of the pie hunters in his ward. With Anderson, several other committeemen, including Henry L. Weeks, deserted Kiel.

Two members of the committee who have been loyal to Kiel, but recently deserted him to join the Mayor's faction, have asked him to resign, but he told them that he would not resign and that the only way the Kreismann faction could get the chairmanship was by reorganization.

3 BUY STOLEN HORSE FOR $12, $17.50, $24

Owner Finds Nag, Suggests Traders Sue Each Other to Establish Claims.

If Billy could talk he might straighten out a legal tangle which caused Assistant Circuit Attorney Davis to throw up his hands Friday. Billy is a sorrel horse which was stolen Sept. 18, 1910, from a stable in the rear of John M. Fenton's contractor's office at 495 Easton avenue. Thursday afternoon Fenton was in North St. Louis, when he saw his horse hitched to an express wagon driven by George Marshall, a negro.

Marshall told him he bought the horse from Max Smith of 254 Thomas street for $24. Special policemen called on Smith. He said he paid $17.50 for the horse when he bought it from Max Eyerman of 1235 North Seventh street. Eyerman said he bought the horse from a negro for $12.

Davis decided that although there had been a theft, he was not justified in holding any of the men who had subsequently owned the horse, and suggested that they bring civil suits against each other to establish their claims.

KANSAS CITY LIKELY TO BRING TRUST SUIT

Produce Exchange Witness Admits Eggs Are Stored to Keep Up Price.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 2.—A temporary restraining order, seeking to oust the Kansas City Fruit and Produce Exchange and to dissolve it as an alleged food trust, may be requested of Judge A. F. Evans, Special Commissioner, taking testimony at a hearing here, Henry Jost, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney announced today.

This declaration came as the result of the testimony of S. J. Hurst, a member of the exchange, after he had admitted on the stand that eggs are stored to keep up prices.

"If the merchants did not store eggs the prices would be low while the big early spring and summer supply was coming to the market," Hurst explained.

"How about the consumer who has to pay the bills?"

"We are not in business for our health," Hurst admitted. "We try to sell our products for just as much as we can get for them."

EXPECTS A PARADISE. BUT GETS A SPANKING

Country Girl, 16, Elopes to St. Louis, Has to Go to Work, Longs to Go Home.

St. Louis was pictured as such a paradise to Lulu Hessenflow, aged 16, that she left the home of her parents, in Liberty, Mo., to elope with John Pallas. They came to St. Louis a month ago and were married by Justice Krueger. A week after the marriage Pallas lost his job, and Mrs. Pallas had to go to work in a cotton factory at Second and Barton streets. She withheld $5 from her wages to buy a dress and her husband spanked her for it. Then she wrote home to her parents. Instead of receiving a letter of sympathy, they requested that she be arrested. She was taken to the Police Matron's headquarters, at the Four Courts, Thursday afternoon, to be held for her parents. St. Louis also was glad of the prospect of getting home, as St. Louis was anything but the paradise she had anticipated.

HADLEY EXPLAINS WHY TEICHMANN RESIGNED

Says Woerheide's Denial That There Had Been Trouble Nettled Him.

Following much speculation in St. Louis and the circulation of many reports as to why Otto L. Teichmann resigned from the Board of Police Commissioners, Gov. Hadley has given out a signed statement. The Governor said Friday that Teichmann told him he would not remain in the board because Commissioner Woerheide, in Teichmann's presence, telephoned to the Governor that there was no trouble among the members of the board. Teichmann, he says, resented this statement, saying that in fact there had been disagreements between him and Commissioner Woerheide, and Brinsmade as to certain proposed reductions and promotions.

MADERO TO PLEAD PEACE WHILE HE GOES TO CAPITAL

Insurrecto Leader Will Visit Torreon, Zacatecas and Aguas Calientes.

END JOURNEY WEDNESDAY

Hears of Looting of Parral Just as He Is Ready to Start on Trip.

By Associated Press. EL PASO, Tex., June 2.—Francisco I. Madero was still early preparatory to his departure today for Mexico City to discuss with President De la Barra the problem of forming a new Government for Mexico. Going by way of Eagle Pass, Tex., Senor Madero intended, after crossing the border to travel in a special train guarded by armed insurrectos. He will visit Torreon, Zacatecas and Aguas Calientes in an effort to pacify that section of the country. Madero is due to arrive in Mexico City at 10 a. m. Wednesday. Those selected to accompany him included Raoul Madero, his brother, and Francisco Sr., his father, Col. Guiseppe Garibaldi and many minor officers who participated in the revolution. The little "White House" on the banks of the muddy irrigation ditch, near Juarez, where Madero had established his headquarters presented a busy scene today. Wagons of documents pertaining to the business of the revolution were hauled to the train, and messengers on horseback were kept galloping between officers' headquarters to give final orders for the departure. Senor Madero himself was greatly pleased with the prospects of his reaching Mexico City.

"It is, of course, the climax of the revolution," he said. "It seems one triumph is completed; we began our fight in the open field, we are marching in peace to the stronghold of those who were once our foes. "No one six months ago would have believed that so great a change could come to a country. Then the country was divided between bitter enemies. Now I trust all the hatred will be forgotten for after all it was a hatred for a social condition. As Mexicans we are all brothers. I trust tranquility will spread throughout the land." Just before the time set for his leaving Senor Madero heard of the looting of the City of Parral, an important mining center near Jimenez. A band of rebels entered the place and took away $50,000 from the banks there.

FOES OF MADERO GAINING RECRUITS

Relief Spreads if Mexico Must Have Dictator, People Should Choose.

MEXICO CITY, June 2.—Coincident with the publication of the recall of Gen. Reyes by the Government came many carefully worded denials that the army is in a conspiracy to make him President by force of arms. A curious part of these denials is that there has been no public charge that such a conspiracy existed, and this makes it look like a case where the lady "doth protest too much." The tension will be tight if Reyes and Madero arrive at the capital about the same time, especially if Reyes' supporters carry out their intentions to hold a demonstration in favor of Reyes. They say it is a free country now, politically, and there is no reason why they should not start Reyes' boom when he arrives, but it is expected there will be trouble if they try it while the Maderistas are celebrating the arrival of their chief. The appeal of Madero to army officers to accept the new conditions and bury the hatchet is having little effect to stop the resignations of officers who do not care to see the revolutionary chiefs, without military training, take rank over them. The decision to keep the entire revolutionary army of the South, numbering about 14,000 men, under arms "until peace is assured throughout the republic" is looked upon as an indication it will take much figuring to bring about that condition. Undoubtedly the opposition to Madero is spreading in a number of states, and indications are that those who oppose him will be considered enemies of the republic. They say if bound to have a dictator, the people will want one of their own choosing, and think Reyes better fitted than Madero. It is the fashion now to abuse the Cientificos, but they still have enormous power.

WINS HORSE FEED CASE

East Side Firm Held Not to Have Violated Food Law.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 2.—Federal Judge Jones has decided against the Government in the matter of its seizure, Feb. 8, 1909, of a car of prepared horsefeed, manufactured and shipped by East St. Louis (Ill.) company. He dismissed the Government's case on the ground that the product was not an adulteration and the label was not misleading, as was contended by the prosecution. He declared the use of the words "cat feed" was not a violation of the pure food statute, because the term "cat feed" had become common in England to designate that part of the grain left after the ingredients useful as food for men had been subtracted.

DEMOCRATS READY TO DEFEND WOOL TARIFF SCHEDULE

Bryan's Attack Scouted and Majority Will Meet Adverse Arguments.

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 2.—Democratic members of the House having finished their party struggle over the wool tariff and agreed almost unanimously to support the Underwood bill, placing a duty of 20 per cent ad valorem on raw wool, prepared today to meet the attacks on the proposed revision of the schedule that were to come from the Republican minority. The Democratic plan was to introduce the wool bill today and refer it to the Ways and Means Committee, by which it would be reported favorably next week. Representative Underwood, who with Speaker Champ Clark led the fight for a revenue tariff on wool from the beginning of the special session, said: "The adoption of this bill and the unanimity with which it was received by the Democrats, many of whom did not favor it as a policy, but who eventually were brought to see its revenue necessity, demonstrated again the earnestness and wisdom of the Democratic House. As for Bryan's attack on the bill, I can only say that he has received his answer from Democrats who never bolted a caucus."

The Senate was not in session today. The Democratic plan was to introduce the wool bill today and refer it to the Ways and Means Committee, by which it would be reported favorably next week. WILL STANDS AFTER FIGHT

Man's Death in Woman's Home Caused Family Estrangement.

BOSTON, June 2.—The mysterious death of Walter F. Baker of Boston, wealthy Harvard man, at the home of Mrs. Helen Hurd of Bogota, N. J., several years ago, which caused an estrangement between the Hurd and the Baker families, is recalled by the final settlement here of the estate of the deceased, which has been in litigation for some years. Baker inherited an estate valued at half a million dollars. The will was sustained, the contesting brother receiving only $500 and Mrs. Hurd $10,000. Harvard College, the residuary legatee, is the chief beneficiary.

Presto! The Shiny Appearance Is Gone

That's How Actol Works—The Fabric Renewer That Makes Worn, Glossy Clothes Look Like New.

Hubby is all ready to go. He notices the shine on his coat sleeve. "Thought I could have that steamed out," he says to his wife, "but the tailor told me last night he couldn't remove shine; it's a shame to throw the coat away. It's all right other-wise, and the suit cost me $40."

"Wait a minute," says his wife, "I have a surprise." She produces a bottle of some chemical fluid, moistens a hand brush, brushes the sleeve and presto—the shine is gone, and the coat looks as fresh and new as when it came from the tailor shop. That's Actol! says wife, anticipating hubby's question. "Isn't it wonderful? Does the work in a fifty, and it won't injure the fabric. See, it's dry already"—and hubby goes away happy.

Actol removes the shine from all kinds of fabrics, from hangings, coverings, sofa pillows, carpets, etc., as well as from clothing. It is a household necessity. The secret of Actol is this: It takes up the nap that has been compressed and polished by constant rubbing against hard surfaces such as desks and the back of chairs, restores the natural color, freshens it, puts life into it and thus gives the fabric that fresh look and soft effect it had when new. Even where the nap is rubbed off, Actol entirely removes the shine and restores the original color of the fabric.

Actol is sold on a guarantee; if it doesn't give satisfactory results you are invited to return the empty bottle and get your money back. Sold by all druggists in 25 and 50 cent sizes. If you have any difficulty securing it, do not accept a dangerous substitute, but send the price to the St. Louis Actol Chemical Co., Delmar and Euclid avenues, St. Louis, Mo., and a bottle will be sent you.

RULE OF REASON TO BE APPLIED TO STREET PREACHER

Police at St. Pearson, Back, if He Preaches Gospel.

BAD LANGUAGE BARRED

Parole on Workhouse Sentence Stands So Long as Exhorter Behaves Himself.

James L. Pearson, a street preacher, whose frequent arrests several months ago brought him to public attention, has come back.

He appeared on Broadway Thursday afternoon in a small wagon decorated with red, white and blue bunting and bearing scriptural verses, and talked at Market street until Sergt. Mathews told him to move on.

Then he went to the next corner, and the next, followed each time by Mathews, until he reached Broadway and Washington avenue, which took him into the Carr Street District and out of Mathews' jurisdiction. After that he was not molested.

Pearson Under Sentence.

Pearson is under a workhouse sentence, from which former Police Judge Tracy paroled him on his promise that he quit preaching on the street, but Capt. Schwartz of the Central District said Friday that he would not ask to have the parole revoked unless Pearson creates a public disturbance.

"I intend to deal with Pearson in the light of the Supreme Court's Oil and Tobacco Trusts decisions," he said. "I will apply the rule of reason. If he preaches the gospel, and confines himself to that, he will not be molested. I am somewhat in doubt as to his ability to preach a sermon, however, because he is illiterate and runs to invective."

"He was doing no good when we arrested him before. Those who listened to him were there only because he used foul and abusive language, and because they wanted to make fun of him."

Merchants Complained.

"In consequence he created one disturbance after another, and merchants about Sixteenth and Market streets, where he preached, complained about it."

"As long as he does not repeat his former offenses he will not be disturbed. He has a right to use the streets if he does not violate the city ordinances and he needs no permit."

Pearson cannot read, but quotes the Bible from memory, his wife having read it aloud to him. After Judge Tracy paroled him, he disappeared, and the police heard nothing more of him until he turned up in his gaily-colored push wagon on Broadway.

RISKS LIFE TO SAVE COMMUNION VEIL.

Girl Rushes Back Into Burning Ferguson Home After Being Carried to Safety.

After being carried to safety Jane Harrison, 12-year-old stepdaughter of Oscar Reller, ran back into the burning Reller home, at Ferguson, Thursday night to rescue the dress and veil which she is to wear when she makes her first communion next Sunday. She saved them.

Reller carried his wife downstairs and aided three children to escape. Mrs. Reller was in bed when the fire was discovered.

Neighbors, including several women, did not take time to dress when Washington locomotive whistles sounded the alarm. They ran to the Reller home and aided in caring for Mrs. Reller and the children.

Men fought the fire with garden hose and the fire was out when the Ferguson Volunteer Fire Company arrived.

ODORS CAUSE COMPLAINT

Woman Says Those at Reduction Plant Are Bad.

Mrs. E. D. McEnnis of St. Charles, Mo., wrote a letter Friday to Judge Vordemann of the St. Louis County Circuit Court, complaining that the odors from the Standard Reduction and Chemical Works at Sande, Mo., opposite St. Charles, have not yet been abated.

Mrs. McEnnis wrote that the condition of the street cars have to use smelling salts. An injunction restraining the company from operating the works was issued last January, but was modified on the company's promise to put in machinery which would kill the odors.

LOS ANGELES, June 2.—The bitter ate of 50 grains of strychnine in less than a pint of milk saved Mrs. Ralph Rafel, the young mother of a 6-month-old baby, from death by poison yesterday. Her husband Ralph Rafel, 25 years old, manager of the Electrical Maintenance Co., has been arrested.
The arrest of Rafel followed a statement made by his wife, who said her husband about a month ago urged her to get a divorce, saying she had the venereal disease. Two weeks later she saw mother in Milwaukee received a letter from her husband telling her not to be surprised if she should hear of

he says, she bought some strychnine at his request "to kill bugs."
When arrested, Rafel denied any wrong-doing, but later told the police where the bottle containing what remained of the strychnine was to be

OF SENATORS WILL TRY LORIMER CASE

Subcommittee to Investigate Is Also Considered Four For Him and Four Against Him.

MARTIN PLAN ADOPTED

Acceptance of Democratic Leader's Resolution Denounced by Bristow as Alliance.

By Leased Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, June 2.—A committee composed of eight senators will investigate the charges against William Lorimer of Illinois and report to the Senate whether he is worthy of a seat in that body. This sub-committee of the Committee on Elections and Privileges will stand four Democrats and four Republicans, and is four for and four against Lorimer at present.

It took seven hours' debate to agree upon the system and it was finally adopted by a vote of 45 to 20, being substituted for the plan urged by Senator La Follette of turning the case over to five senators who were not members when the case was voted upon before and, therefore, were supposed to be unbiased. Before the vote was taken, Senator Bristow, who favored the La Follette plan, accused Senator Dillingham, chairman of the Elections Committee, of having capitulated in the interest of a Democratic scheme of turning the investigation over to a subcommittee. This charge was based on the fact that the author of the resolution adopted was Senator Martin, the Democratic leader.

Charges Duty Was Shirked.
Bristow declared that the old-guard Republicans had formed an alliance with the Democrats and that they had placed the mantle of "Aldrich" upon the shoulders of Martin.

That the Committee on Privileges and Elections had shirked its duty in the former investigation was charged unreservedly by the supporters of the La Follette resolution.

Senator Lea of Tennessee said he would no more turn the case over to the elections committee for another trial than he would submit to a second operation for appendicitis by a surgeon who had failed on the first operation to locate the appendix.

Senator Kenyon of Iowa, recently assistant to the Attorney-General, intimated that the great trusts had busied themselves with the election of senators so as to influence the selection of United States district attorneys, whose friendship might be useful in the case of prosecutions.

Insurgents Against It.
Defense of the Martin resolution was conducted by Senators Dillingham, Martin, Bacon, Stone and other senators from both the Republican and Democratic sides of the chamber.

Most of the insurgent Republican senators voted against the adoption of the Martin resolution. Of the 20 negative votes 13 were cast by Republicans—
Borah, Bourne, Bristow, Brown, Clapp, Crawford, Cummins, Dixon, Gronna, J.
Kenyon, La Follette, Perkins and Pol-dexter—and seven by Democrats—Davis, Hitchcock, Lea, Martine, Newlands, Owen and Pomerene.

The resolution adopted merely provides that the investigation shall be conducted by the Elections Committee.
It was in connection with the understanding on the part of many senators that a bi-partisan and bi-Lorimer committee was to be named that brought out most of the criticism.

Bristow Starts Discussion.
The discussion of the alleged agreement as to the delegation of the inquiry to a subcommittee was precipitated by Bristow. He said he had been advised that the investigation was not to be made by the committee as a whole, but by a subcommittee and that the leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties had reached an understanding concerning the committee's personnel.

In discussing what he termed the "capitulation" of Senator Dillingham, he said he accepted this act as a temporary transference of the leadership to the Democratic side. It was with a feeling of regret, he said, that he saw the mantle of Aldrich fall upon the shoulders of a Democrat, but he added that he found consolation in the fact that a transfer had become necessary.

Bristow Is Satirical.
"Gallagher had not been able to don the mantle," said Bristow, "and it had not been found to fit Penrose. For some strange reason, it had not been tendered to Lodge, and not until the wolves had scattered the sheep had there been any success in finding a leader. But now that a coalition has been formed, the man has been found, and the Senate knows whence its signals are to come."

Continuing in this satirical vein, Bristow said he wondered whether the new leadership would continue so as to control the Lorimer legislation, tariff and other matters. He wondered whether this leadership would go further and protect the Hines lumber interests and take care of the duty on iron ore.

VAGRANT LEPER GAD ST. LOUIS IS TO CARE FOR HIM

Walter Grayson, Prisoner at Old City Hall, Says He is a Deserter From Navy.

Walter Grayson seemed pleased Friday, when city dispensary physicians told him he was suffering from leprosy. "I've known for a long time that something was wrong with me," said the man, who is a prisoner in the isolation ward at the old city hall, "and I didn't think I was going to get well. I'm glad now they know what it is, and that I'm going to be taken care of. I'm tired of tramping around."

A strip of skin taken from Grayson's right arm is being examined by City Bacteriologist Harris, and he will not be sent to quarantine until this test is completed, but the physicians who have seen him say there is no doubt about his being a leper.

Tendency to Go to Sleep. Grayson walked into the city dispensary Thursday afternoon, and sank drowsily into a chair. Dr. R. H. Hall attended him when his turn came, and saw that his hands, feet and ears were swollen. The case seemed too serious for eczema or any mere skin disease, and the physician called his chief, Dr. Scott. The latter pronounced the case leprosy, and the verdict was confirmed by Dr. G. A. Jordan and Dr. M. C. Woodruff, both acquainted with leprosy cases.

The man, who showed a constant tendency to lapse into sleep, said that he was 34 years old, and was a deserter from the United States Navy. During his service in the navy, following his enlistment in 1901, he visited the West Indies, and has never been well since. He deserted in 1902, and has led a vagrant life.

He applied for treatment in Brooklyn in 1902, he said, telling the physicians at a public hospital that his wrists were numb. They turned him away as an imposter, he said, and he has not since been examined by a physician until Thursday.

Don't Released as Cured. The room in which he is kept is on the second floor of the Old City Hall, on the Market street side and near an alley, in what was formerly the House of Delegates' chamber, and has been used as a reception room for the few cases of leprosy which have developed in St. Louis in the past few years.

GIRL WHO ASKS AID TO FIND POODLE DOGKATIE FAULKNER.*THIS GIRL OF 6 IS LOOKING FOR HER DOG

Katie Faulkner's Poodle Playmate Is Named Nellie and Has Funny Black Ear.

Six-year-old Katie Faulkner has lost her only playmate, Nellie. Katie has no brother or sister, and Nellie, a poodle with a funny black ear, has kept her from being too lonesome during the long days when her foster-mother, Mrs. Agnes Faulkner, has been away from their home and at work.

Katie hunted the whole neighborhood for Nellie, with the fitful assistance of other children, and she appealed to the policeman who walks past her home, at 1225 South Broadway. But no one found Nellie for her, and Katie determined to get the Post-Dispatch to help her.

So she trudged up Broadway 15 blocks in the hot sun to the Post-Dispatch office Friday.

"I've lost my Nellie," she announced, "and I want to see if the Post-Dispatch will please help me to find her."

"Nellie has a black eye and a black ear," said Katie, "and a lot of other spots where the hair has come off. I keep her in a basket, but it was so hot we had to leave the door open, and she got out. I'm getting lonesome and lonesome all the time without her."

SUBLETTE ESTATE GOES TO PRESENT HOLDERS OF LAND

Supreme Court Decides Girl Died After Uncle and Owned Property.

The famous Sublette case, involving the title to land in Southeast St. Louis valued at $2,000,000, was decided in the Supreme Court Thursday afternoon in favor of those now holding the 700 acres, ending a litigation which turned upon the priority of death between 9-year-old Fannie Sublette and Pinckney W. Sublette, her uncle, a Western trapper.

Judge Lamm handed down the decision, and by his finding it is established that the uncle died first. Had it been established that he died after the girl, his heirs would have laid claim to his part of the immense estate. The case was a suit to elect executor brought by Robert A. Peniston and other claimants against the Hydraulic-Press Brick Co. and 500 other land owners at present holding the property.

The case was advanced on the docket, on the petition of these landowners, who urged that it be decided to clear the title to the property.

Fannie Sublette died suddenly while at a birthday party, May 16, 1891, and it was said that something, she ate had made her ill; but there were rumors that she had been poisoned. She was the last of her family, and the question arose whether her uncle Pinckney died after she did. He had gone to the headwaters of the Missouri years before, and a long and tedious search by lawyers revealed his grave on a lonely prairie. Testimony of those who had known him was that he had died before 1891.

'ECZEMA ITCHED SO I COULDN'T STAND IT'

Began by Little Pimples. Scratched Until Blood Came. Kept Getting Worse. Could Not Sleep Nights. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and the First Day They Relieved Itching. In 3 Weeks Eczema Cured.

"I suffered with eczema on my neck for about six months, beginning by little pimples breaking out. I kept scratching till the blood came. It kept getting worse. I couldn't sleep nights any more. I went to a doctor and got some liquid to take. It seemed as if I was going to get better. The itching stopped for about three days, but when it started again, was even worse than before. The eczema itched so badly I couldn't stand it any more. I went to a doctor and he gave me some medicine, but didn't do any good. We have been having Cuticura Remedies in the house, so I decided to try them. I had been using Cuticura Soap, so I got a box of Cuticura Ointment, and was told to use the affected part with Cuticura Soap three times a day, and then put the Cuticura Ointment on. The first day I put it on, it relieved me of itching so I could sleep all that night. It took about a week, then I could see the scab come off. I kept the treatment up for three weeks, and my eczema was cured."

"My brother got his face burned with gunpowder, and he used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The people all thought he would have scars, but you can't see that he ever had his face burned. It was simply awful to look at before the Cuticura Remedies (Soap and Ointment) cured it." (Signed) Miss Elizabeth Gedrick, Forrest City, Ark., Oct. 16, 1910.

The Cuticura Remedies afford the speediest and most economical treatment for skin troubles. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., sole props., 139 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass. Free Mailed Free samples of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, with 32-p. book on skin treatment.

SERVANTS TESTIFY IN SUIT TO BREAK RICH HOE ESTATE

Tell of Relations Between Wealthy Manufacturer and Mrs. Margaret Brown.

IN LONDON MANSION

Endearing Terms and Embrace of Kisses Figure in Depositions Made by Two Women.

NEW YORK, June 2.—The testimony of Mrs. Alice Butler and Emma Byfield, both of London, taken by commission in the suit brought by Mrs. Margaret Johnson Johns, formerly the wife of Lewis P. Brown of Covington, Ky., against Frederick W. Crane and Phineas P. Chew, as executors of the estate of the late Robert Hoe, the millionaire printing press manufacturer, have been received by County Clerk Schneider. Mrs. Butler was cook and Miss Byfield a maid in the house, 28 Brunswick square, London, in which Mr. Hoe resided with the Browns in 1905. Mrs. Johns seeks to recover from the Hoe estate about $230,000 in securities, which she asserts Mr. Hoe gave her.

Emma Byfield testified that she entered Mrs. Brown's employ on May 19, 1906, and left her on Oct. 13, 1909, three weeks after the death of Mr. Hoe. Mrs. Johns seeks to recover from the Hoe estate about $230,000 in securities, which she asserts Mr. Hoe gave her.

She said Mrs. Brown occupied the front room on the second floor as her bedroom and Mr. Hoe the back room on the same floor. Miss Brown had a room as her mother's room.

The witness was asked how Mrs. Brown usually addressed Mr. Hoe. "She usually called him 'Dear Robert,'" she replied, "and he called her 'Margaret,' and sometimes 'Dear Margaret.'"

Q. Did you ever see Mr. Hoe kiss Mrs. Brown? A. Yes, I saw him kiss her sometimes in the hall.

Q. Did you ever see him embrace her? A. Yes, several times in the front hall. Q. Did he use terms of endearment to her? A. Yes; sometimes he would say "Dear Margaret" and sometimes "My love."

Saw Kisses in Hall. Q. Have you ever seen Mrs. Brown kiss Mr. Hoe? A. Yes; I have seen her kiss him several times in the hall, but I don't think they saw me.

The witness then told how Mr. Hoe generally preferred Mrs. Brown's bath. "Mr. Hoe," she explained, "would take his bath first and then prepare Mrs. Brown's, and would go up and knock at her door and say 'Margaret, your bath is ready.'"

Mr. Hoe and Mrs. Brown almost always took their meals together, and frequently went out together to the theater, the witness said. When they returned they had sandwiches in the dining room.

She swore that Mr. Hoe often rebuked Mrs. Brown for being rude, and that Mrs. Brown would punish her daughter for her rudeness to Mr. Hoe. She said that Mr. and Mrs. Claude Johnson, Mrs. Brown's parents, lived at 27 Brunswick square, with which a door connected the Hoe house, and that they used to visit Mrs. Brown sometimes.

After Trip. She said that the last time Mr. Hoe came back from New York he did not look well, and seemed worried. During his last illness, which lasted about 12 days, he was attended by nurses, one of whom was a Miss Mina, who had been brought from New York by Mrs. Brown as a governess for her daughter.

"Mrs. Brown was frequently in Mr. Hoe's room during his illness," Miss Byfield said. "Two or three doctors attended him and some kind of operation was performed by them."

Q. Were there any documents or papers torn up or burnt after Mr. Hoe's death? A. On the next morning a paper basket was brought down from his room and taken into the dining room and a lot of the papers were burned. I saw the charred remains of them on the hearth.

The witness said a lawyer visited Mr. Hoe while he was ill. Mrs. Brown always paid her her wages—sometimes in cash, but generally by check signed "Margaret Johnson Brown."

Q. Did Mrs. Brown ever make any remark to you concerning her character? A. Yes; shortly after Mr. Hoe's death she said to me: "I hope you don't think me a bad woman."

Brown Left Country. Mrs. Alice Butler, who said she resided at No. 8 Widmore Buildings, Kings Cross, London, testified that she had been employed by Mrs. Brown from February, 1905, for two years. Mr. Brown lived there at first, but left for New York in August, 1906. He had occupied the back room on the second floor. After he went away Mr. Hoe moved into the first floor. A dressing room at the top of the stairs, but she was sent to the floor above after her father went to America. She corroborated Miss Byfield's testimony as to the kissing and embracing between Mrs. Brown and Mr. Hoe. "There was none of that before Mr. Brown," she said. "Mrs. Brown used only call him 'Robert' up to that time, but after Brown went away it was 'Robert, Dear,' and 'Robert, Love.' Mr. Hoe only called her 'Margaret' when Brown was there, but afterwards he called her 'Margaret, Dear.' I could not say how often I saw them kissing each other."

She said she never knew anyone to prepare Mrs. Brown's bath but Mr. Hoe. When asked to describe the relationship existing between Mr. Hoe and Mrs. Brown, the witness said they "looked like man and wife in their behavior in the house," but this was only after Brown's departure.

Brown Protested. Q. Do you know whether Mr. Brown ever protested to his wife about her being too attentive to Mr. Hoe? A. Yes, I have heard him reproach her about it, but she called him silly. When he came back in the early part of 1906 he asked me how long Claude had been moved upstairs, and I told him. He went upstairs and saw the room, but said nothing.

"Tell us about the embracing and kissing," she was asked on cross-examination. "I have seen them kissing and embracing when they were in the smoking room," said Mr. Butler, "and have been passing up and down stairs, and I have seen them in the dining room several times. They have seen me, but have made no remark to me. No one was present except myself."

The suit brought by Mrs. Johns is set for trial at the present term of court.

MARY MANNERING WEDS A BUSINESS MAN OF DETROIT

He Is Frederick E. Wadsworth, a Manufacturer, Who Was Divorced Last Year.

WAS MATINEE IDOL'S WIFE

Actress' First Marriage, to James K. Hackett, in Secret, Was a Love Match.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, June 2.—Miss Mary Manning, dramatic star, who divorced James K. Hackett in 1900, surprised her friends by marrying Frederick E. Wadsworth, a manufacturer of Detroit, Mich., yesterday afternoon. The wedding took place in the Church of the Divine Paternity, Central Park West, the Rev. Frank O. Hall performing the ceremony.

The bridegroom, who said he was 43 years old, described himself as the son of James W. Wadsworth of Darien, Conn. According to the papers filed with the application, he, too, has had previous matrimonial difficulties, having been divorced last July by his first wife, who was Luella Peck Wadsworth of Kalamazoo, Mich. These papers set forth that Mrs. Wadsworth obtained her divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty, and was awarded the custody of their children.

Gives Her Age as 33. Miss Manning said she was 32 years old, although various published biographies of the actress give the date of her birth as 1876. She has a daughter 6 years old.

When it became known in 1898 that the beautiful Miss Manning had been secretly married in the preceding year to the popular leading actor of the old Lyceum company, there was great public interest for the union was regarded as a love match.

The reason given for the secrecy was that the news of the wedding would harm the popularity of "The Courtship of Leonie," the play in which both were then acting. The couple seemed to be happy for two years, and then came the divorce litigation, which had much publicity. There have been many reports during recent years that the couple would be reconciled.

Is a Beautiful Woman. Miss Manning is one of the beautiful women of the American stage, and she is also an actress of considerable ability. She had won her way in the drama largely by her personal charm. In a long series of roles, among which are the heroines in "The First Gentleman of Europe," "The Mayflower," "The Princess and the Butcher," "Glorious Betsy," and "A Man's Word"—the last mentioned being the most recent play in which she has been seen in New York.

Miss Manning's marriage revealed the fact that the name Manning was only a stage fiction, and that her real name was Florence Friend, and that in her first marriage she was in London she played under her own name. She was christened Mary Manning by Daniel Frohmann when she came to the United States in 1896 to play under his management.

Didn't Take Poison, BUT HAD FREE RIDE

Mother Calls Ambulance for Daughter Whose Bluff Carried Her to Hospital.

Miss Emma Baker, 17 years old, of 448 North Market street did not take poison, but she had a long ride in an ambulance, anyway.

The call for the ambulance came from Miss Baker's mother after she found a note in her daughter's bedroom. It read: "Good-by, I'm gone."

Mrs. Baker told the police that she and her daughter quarreled after the young woman told her she was to be married next Sunday. She said a man named Rogers was her fiancé. Mrs. Baker emphatically stated her objections to the marriage and Miss Baker ran to her room and wrote the note.

"I didn't take poison. It was only a bluff," said Miss Baker when the ambulance arrived, but she was required to go to the city hospital, where it was found that her statement was true.

WOMEN SENT TO JAIL TAKE BABIES ALONG

Wives and Daughters of Striking Miners Serenaded Men at Work With Kettles.

IRVING, Pa., June 2.—Twelve women, wives and daughters of Westmoreland County striking miners, have been sent to jail, some with babies in their arms, for serenading with bells, kettles and cooking utensils the men who were at work. Several took their babies to prison.

The women were arrested a week ago and fined $5.00 each. They could not raise the money and were ordered to jail for 30 days each. Later they were released to their homes, again took up the serenading of the strike breakers, the serenading of the strike breakers, the serenading of the strike breakers, the serenading of the strike breakers.

As they rode away on the trolley line in charge of two officers they joined in singing "The Union Forever."

EDISON'S NEW BATTERY TO REVOLUTIONIZE ALL TRAFFIC

Small and Light Enough to Be Carried in Suitcase, It Will Run Car 60 Miles—Three Minutes to Recharge Cells.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, June 2.—Thomas A. Edison, whose name is part of nearly every big electric light plant in the United States, attended yesterday afternoon for the first time in his life a session of the National Electric Light Association. He made his visit memorable by announcing that he had perfected a new storage battery for surface cars and trucks which would revolutionize the street traction business.

When asked about the success of his storage battery, recently invented, which is now used to run the surface cars on twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth streets, Manhattan, he said:

"I have done far better than that now and nothing has come out about it. I have perfected a battery which can be recharged in three or four minutes and which will run fifty or sixty miles without being recharged."

"The trouble with the first battery was that the recharging took a long time. When charged a car would run all day, but then it took the better part of the night to recharge it and get it ready for the next day. But I have done away with all that. I have now a battery which can be put into a suitcase, it is so small and light, and it can run a car, truck, automobile or vehicle of any kind until the power is used up, and then be recharged in less than three minutes, ready for service as before."

"I suppose," said one of the electric light men present, "that one of these new batteries could be used to take a street car over the line once or twice and then run through the recharging station and out again in three minutes."

"That is it exactly," replied Mr. Edison, with enthusiasm, "or there could be small recharging stations along the line, where batteries might be recharged as much as they needed in a minute or less. The beauty of this battery is that the power can be put into it in small quantities or large without waste of time."

WIFE SAYS HUSBAND CAUSED HER INJURIES

Frank Mavrapel Held While She Is Treated in Hospital.

Mrs. Mary Mavrapel, 28 years old, of 2841 South Third street is at the city hospital suffering from injuries which she says were inflicted by her husband, Frank Mavrapel.

Neighbors heard screams Friday and going to the house, they found Mrs. Mavrapel hysterical. When calmed she said that her husband had struck her and drove her from the house Thursday night and that she sat on the front steps for one and one-half hours. Her head is bruised and hospital physicians say she contracted pneumonia through exposure.

Mavrapel is held at the Wyoming Street Station pending investigation of his wife's story.

Women in Iron Mountain St. Louis Yards Leave It on Road in Jumping From Rails.

Mrs. Lizzie Gest's use of a baby's go-cart to carry a bundle of laundry cost the life of John Braden, wrecked an Iron Mountain train and demolished a building.

Mrs. Gest and her daughter Dora, 34 years old, were walking in the Iron Mountain yards Thursday afternoon. They stepped off a track on which a northbound train was approaching and started to cross the southbound tracks, not noticing that another train was coming.

Mrs. Gest heard the warning whistle in time to jump back, but she left the go-cart on the track. To avoid running down what he thought to be a baby, Engineer Kershaw applied the air and stopped his train of 50 empty freight cars.

The sudden shock of stopping caused the train to buckle in the center, and five cars in the middle of the train jumped the track. Braden, who lived in Luxembourg and worked for the Union Sand Co., was walking between the track and a three-story brick building.

Is Caught Under Wreckage. The flying cars struck him and he was caught under the wreckage. He was dead when taken out.

Mrs. Gest took her go-cart from the track and continued her walk to her home at Kraus and Water streets.

The wrecked building was owned by Police Sergeant Thomas Whelan of the Magnolia avenue district.

Mrs. Gest and her daughter Dora, 34 years old, were walking in the Iron Mountain yards Thursday afternoon. They stepped off a track on which a northbound train was approaching and started to cross the southbound tracks, not noticing that another train was coming.

Mrs. Gest heard the warning whistle in time to jump back, but she left the go-cart on the track. To avoid running down what he thought to be a baby, Engineer Kershaw applied the air and stopped his train of 50 empty freight cars.

The sudden shock of stopping caused the train to buckle in the center, and five cars in the middle of the train jumped the track. Braden, who lived in Luxembourg and worked for the Union Sand Co., was walking between the track and a three-story brick building.

Mrs. Gest took her go-cart from the track and continued her walk to her home at Kraus and Water streets.

OUR STEEL MASTER.

The United States Steel Corporation is the greatest of all the trusts that control manufacture. As Judge Gary said in his testimony yesterday, "The Steel Corporation does absolutely no operating. It manufactures nothing. It gets income from the dividends declared by the subsidiary companies." For five or six years, he said, it has been under investigation by the Bureau of Corporations.

Its control of these subsidiary companies is absolute, as Judge Gary's testimony shows.

Yet after five or six years of "diligent investigation" of the affairs of this gigantic trust, the Bureau of Corporations has been unable to furnish any "publicity in the interest of the public."

One presidential campaign has been fought—and financed—since the bureau began its investigation of Steel. The tariff has been revised and preparations are under way for another presidential campaign, but the facts collected by the Bureau of Corporations under two Republican administrations have yet to see the light of day.

During the last five or six years the heavy hand of the United States Government has been laid upon Harriman, upon Beef, upon Turbentine, upon Sugar, upon Standard Oil, upon Tobacco; but no administrative finger has disturbed the serenity of the great god Steel. On the contrary, Mr. Roosevelt, as President of the United States, personally licensed the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Co. by the United States Steel Corporation in further recognition of the "great influence of the Morgan interests, which have been so friendly to us," and gave it an ultimate monopoly of the high-grade iron ore of the country.

Is the United States Government another of the Steel Trust's subsidiary concerns?

With the adjournment of the Forty-seventh General Assembly of Illinois, public attention can now concentrate on the Senate of the United States, where privilege and monopoly are making their last stand against the audacity of the ultimate consumer.

AN ART MONUMENT.

The $25,000 agreed upon by the officers of the Ives Memorial Association is sufficient to obtain a suitable personal memorial of the late director of the Art Museum. The fund should be quickly subscribed.

But the plan of a Hall of Architecture should not be thrown aside. Its completion will be a monument in the largest sense, not only of Dr. Ives' services, but of the whole movement and of the services of all who have participated with him in the promotion of the culture, knowledge and appreciation of art in St. Louis. It would crown the work of years with a great institution, the benefits of which would be incalculable. It would embody the fruits of the broadest experience and culture in the field of art. It could make St. Louis a center of art influence and education.

While erecting a memorial to the man, let us crown the work with greater achievement. A goal of this kind is worth setting up and working patiently for. It can be accomplished.

Stand-pat organs gloat over the fact that the Root amendment to the Canadian reciprocity bill has given the President a fright. When the voters get a chance to administer a shock several senators may sustain politically fatal frights.

"MENDING BROKEN MEN."

Colorado is experimenting in what is exploited as a novelty in "penology." In this case, "penology" is defined as the science of "mending broken men" instead of punishing them as convicts, without amendment.

As the Warden of the Colorado State Prison explains his methods, he depends on the "open-air cure," in the presence of Colorado scenery. He trusts the worst criminals with sufficient freedom in the open air to work on State farms and in building new State roads, finished up to the modern demand for automobile boulevards.

All this might be highly useful for purposes of publicity, but becoming any more scientific than the "open-air cure" as administered in the past to convicts, aware of an invisible "dead line," established for their confinement in the presence of scenery perhaps as glorious in its own way as that of Colorado is said to be, when it is described as part of this scientific method.

All that is being said in Colorado and elsewhere of such science depends for results on the good faith of a single sentence. It is said that Colorado intends to work wholly away from the methods of every system under which prisoners of the State are treated as "slaves of the State." It is promised that during the whole period of their confinement they will be controlled so that they will work for their own self-support and the support of their outside dependents. If that is done in good faith, the "open-air cure" may mend many broken men. Otherwise everything done in the name of any sort of "science" becomes part of the breaking process.

A PARAMOUNT DUTY.

The outcome of the controversy between William J. Bryan and Representative Underwood on the raw wool tax is important in its bearing on the struggle for tariff reform. The House leaders who have the full responsibility for Democratic legislation and the legislative policy of the party have concluded after earnest thought and discussion that a radical reduction in the tax on raw wool with a radical reduction of the entire wool schedule would be wiser than an attempt to put raw wool on the free list.

They have good reasons for their course. They think the revenue from a light tax on raw wool is necessary or, at least, that the revenue argument would be difficult to answer. They think that an effort to put raw wool on the free list would excite opposition that might endanger all tariff reform. They regard the reduced schedule as a great gain in the battle against privilege. Regardless of the Democratic soundness of tariff for revenue legislation and all practical considerations, Mr. Bryan demands free wool and denounces all who oppose his demands as protectionists in disguise. He excommunicates all of his opponents.

This action of Mr. Bryan raises a greater issue than that involved in wool legislation. It raises the issue of the continuation of the Bryan dictatorship in the Democratic party. Giving Mr. Bryan full credit for all the good work he has accomplished for political reform, he has three times led the party to defeat in national elections. His leadership has been a failure. Mr. Bryan's protestations against his own candidacy does not in any degree diminish his offense of trying to dictate the party's policies. That is the height of arrogance.

If his leadership shall be acknowledged the bright prospects of the party will fade. No man can win in the presidential race with Bryan on his back. The repudiation of Bryan bossism is the first step necessary to Democratic success next year. That is the paramount duty of the party. The Democratic majority of the House of Representatives have set an excellent example for all Democrats.

Asked to make some reply to John W. Gates' statements, Mr. Carnegie said he wanted nothing to do with the "filthy scandal," but in September he said he would talk. He may possibly explain about the filthy.

BOILING IN OIL.

Returned as a Conservative member of the House of Commons at the last election, Sir Henry Seymour King has been found guilty of "lavishly treating his constituents" during the campaign. He has been unseated.

Here is food for thought. Did Sir Henry circulate the peanuts too freely, or did the oceans of soda pop indicate his lavishness? It doesn't matter. The interesting thing is what the House of Commons would do to the member from the Lumbet Trust whose success was paid for out of a $100,000 slush fund. Boiling in oil, we believe, is forbidden in England, but in the delectable task of making the punishment fit the crime, and starting with soda pop as the basis, it would seem to come somewhere near qualifying. But then the English have queer notions about their sacred liberties.

"I shall die in Mexico," said the departing Diaz as he sailed for Spain. After thinking it over, Gen. Porfirio may conclude that Spain's terminal facilities are adequate.

THE PEOPLE'S PARKS.

During the administration of the Park Department by Mr. Philip C. Scanlan, who has just retired with an exceptional tribute of approval and good will, the wise policy of park and playground extension has been in operation. Hundreds of acres have been added to the park system and a chain of small parks and playgrounds has been opened to the public. To the task of maintaining the older and greater parks was added that of preparing and improving the smaller park spaces. The work has been well done and St. Louis now has a splendid foundation for one of the most complete and beautiful park systems in existence.

Fortunately, Mr. Scanlan's successor in the park commissioner's office, Mr. Dwight Davis, has been one of the leaders of the playground and park extension movement. He goes into office with an enthusiasm for the work of increasing the usefulness of the parks to the people, born of earnest volunteer service. The policy of extension should be continued, but in connection with it there should be a concentration of effort to increase the wholesome use and enjoyment of the parks by the elements of the population which need them most.

Those who are unable to get to the country should be drawn to the parks, squares and playgrounds by irresistible attraction. Walks, conveniences, pleasure grounds should be provided for the masses who can afford neither horses nor motors.

The parks are the estates of the people. They are the lungs of cities and the recreation resorts of their inhabitants. They serve a great and essential purpose in promoting the moral, physical and mental welfare of the people. To make the parks reach their highest usefulness for all the people, especially those who have no other recreation grounds, should be the chief end of the park administration.

Alexander Selkirk, who was monarch of all he surveyed and "lord of the fowl and the brute," was not happy because he could not hear the church bells ringing. Yet, here in St. Louis, the bells make some people nervous and they want the ringing stopped. One man's music is another man's misery.

The Mormons may still hold that polygamy is a divine principle and has something to do with the pursuit of happiness, but not of liberty.

History may show a disposition to refer to it as "Perkins' Panic," but Col. Roosevelt has also a claim that cannot be ignored.

Fifty additional postal banks are about to be established and even the stocking trust has not made a complaint.

Mr. Bryan is now serving a useful purpose. By listening carefully the Democrats in Congress can find out from his advice what to do exactly what it is best not to do.

Another reason why Senator Lorimer isn't saying a word is a profound conviction that words are superfluous.

The Boston Herald says Colorado has only one Senator, but might have done worse. Certainly Illinois did.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Hymn and the State Song.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
It seems to me that the new song for this State is entirely too "hymnified" for popularity with the masses of the people. Years ago—the writer is 72—my father, a Methodist preacher contemporary with Peter Cartwright, Lorenzo Dow and the circuit riders of pioneer days, sang at home, "protracted meetings" and revivals a song (the "protracted meeting" and revivals a song) very strangely like "Missouri," having the same metre and in one of the verses exactly the same line. I enclose a copy of it, from memory, substantially correct except the last two lines of the last verse, which I have forgotten, as it appeared in the Methodist hymn books of 60 years ago.

Have mercy, Lord! Oh Lord, forgive!
Let a repentant sinner live.
Are not Thy mercies large and free,
May not a sinner trust in Thee—
Dear Savior?

Though I am vile, I come today
Before Thy throne of grace and pray.
My sins are many, yet I know
That Thou wilt wash me white as snow—
Dear Savior.

Oh, God of hosts, we bring to Thee Hearts full of love and loyalty.
Our errand souls must still adore
The sinless One forever more—
Dear Savior.

Christ came, a compromise for sin,
That sinful man might enter in.
We mourn our sins, weep o'er thy wrongs
And raise our voice in grateful songs—
Dear Savior.

Thy life, on Christ, Thy agony
Still points the way to Calvary.
Thy blood, O Lord, has cleansed our sin,
Dear Savior.

Sounds like "Missouri," doesn't it?

PETER J. HARLES.

An Annexationist Explains.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I want to endorse the suggestion made at the meeting of the Million Population Club and some county representatives, viz.: that a part of the territory be taken into the city. We need improvements. We have no proper sewage, no fire protection, a poor water supply and high rates for it, a get-rich-quick gas supply, and, considering what we get in return, high taxes, muddy streets, a smell in the front yard and fresh air at a premium. It is time something was done. The sooner the city takes hold of the problem the better it will be for ourselves, our children and the nation population. "High Taxes and No Protection" is the Forest Park Heights slogan. G. W.

Menacing Freight Rates.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
While American Tobacco and other so-called legitimate lines of business that have been robbing Peter to pay Paul are being exposed, railroad rates should get their share. I am about 65 miles from St. Louis, and to get certain classes of stock into market, which today stands at 70 cents per 100 pounds, I am compelled to pay a local rate of 32 cents to transport. This same stock on through rate in car lots is $2.60 per 2000 pounds. I have other stocks, which, as the market stands today, only command $6 per ton, which to ship with stock of a higher market value are rated at the same rate as the higher class stock. As a business man I am inclined to believe that the present freight rates, known as Western classification are a menace to commerce and should be handled or adjusted by a committee of experienced men who have business qualifications to handle the different articles of commerce listed in tariff rate. ONE WHO HOPS TO KEEP THE WHEELS OF COMMERCE ROLLING.

The State Song.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
In regard to our State song, it will be remembered that the German Empire exhausted its musical genius in the attempt to produce a song that would strike the popular chord. Finally a modest citizen—Nick Becker—a shoemaker, I believe, produced from the archives of his vaudevilian conception the Rhine song, which vibrated through the very foundation of that great nation, and in one hour added more lustre to his name than Goethe or Schiller had gained in a lifetime. The song selected by our committee is beautiful, both in sentiment and language, but has created no enthusiasm. The popular chord has not been vibrated. Give the people time and possibly some lone fisherman on the pearly shores of the Kaw will leave written in a soap box, or the end of a beer keg, words that will thrill every heart in this great State. Give us time and this vibratory effect will be produced. C. C. COWEN.

Here's a Booster.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I notice in tonight's edition a complaint from a newcomer to St. Louis. I don't think the town he comes from was so up-to-date as it might be or else he has stayed at home and has not seen St. Louis. That is in answer to his first remark; second, where did he see the poor, underfed horses? The big majority of the horses I see are in mighty good shape; third, Chicago can't find St. Louis against Chicago. Chicago can't find St. Louis when it comes to streets and sidewalks. Everybody claims it is alive, but it's 20 years behind St. Louis on this item; fourth, no parks downtown. Show me the town that has more; fifth, factory laws not enforced. Will venture to say that all of St. Louis have been more thoroughly enforced in the last five years than any other city in the United States; sixth, no booster for St. Louis; here is one. I have visited lots of large cities, but for genuine comfort and an even chance for everybody, show me where you can beat St. Louis. When he talks of dead ones walking around St. Louis there may be some, but generally they come from somewhere else and it takes them a long time to wake up. LUCIAN A. PAUL.

A Publisher's Advice.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.
The Author: Would you advise me to get out a small edition?
The Publisher: Yes, the smaller the better. The more scarce a book is at the end of four or five centuries the more money you realize from it.

A Boston Joke.

From the Boston Transcript.
The Board of Education of Kansas has ordered that all schoolhouses have been built in the State shall be provided with cyclone cellars. This precaution against great winds looks as if the board anticipated a revival of Populism.

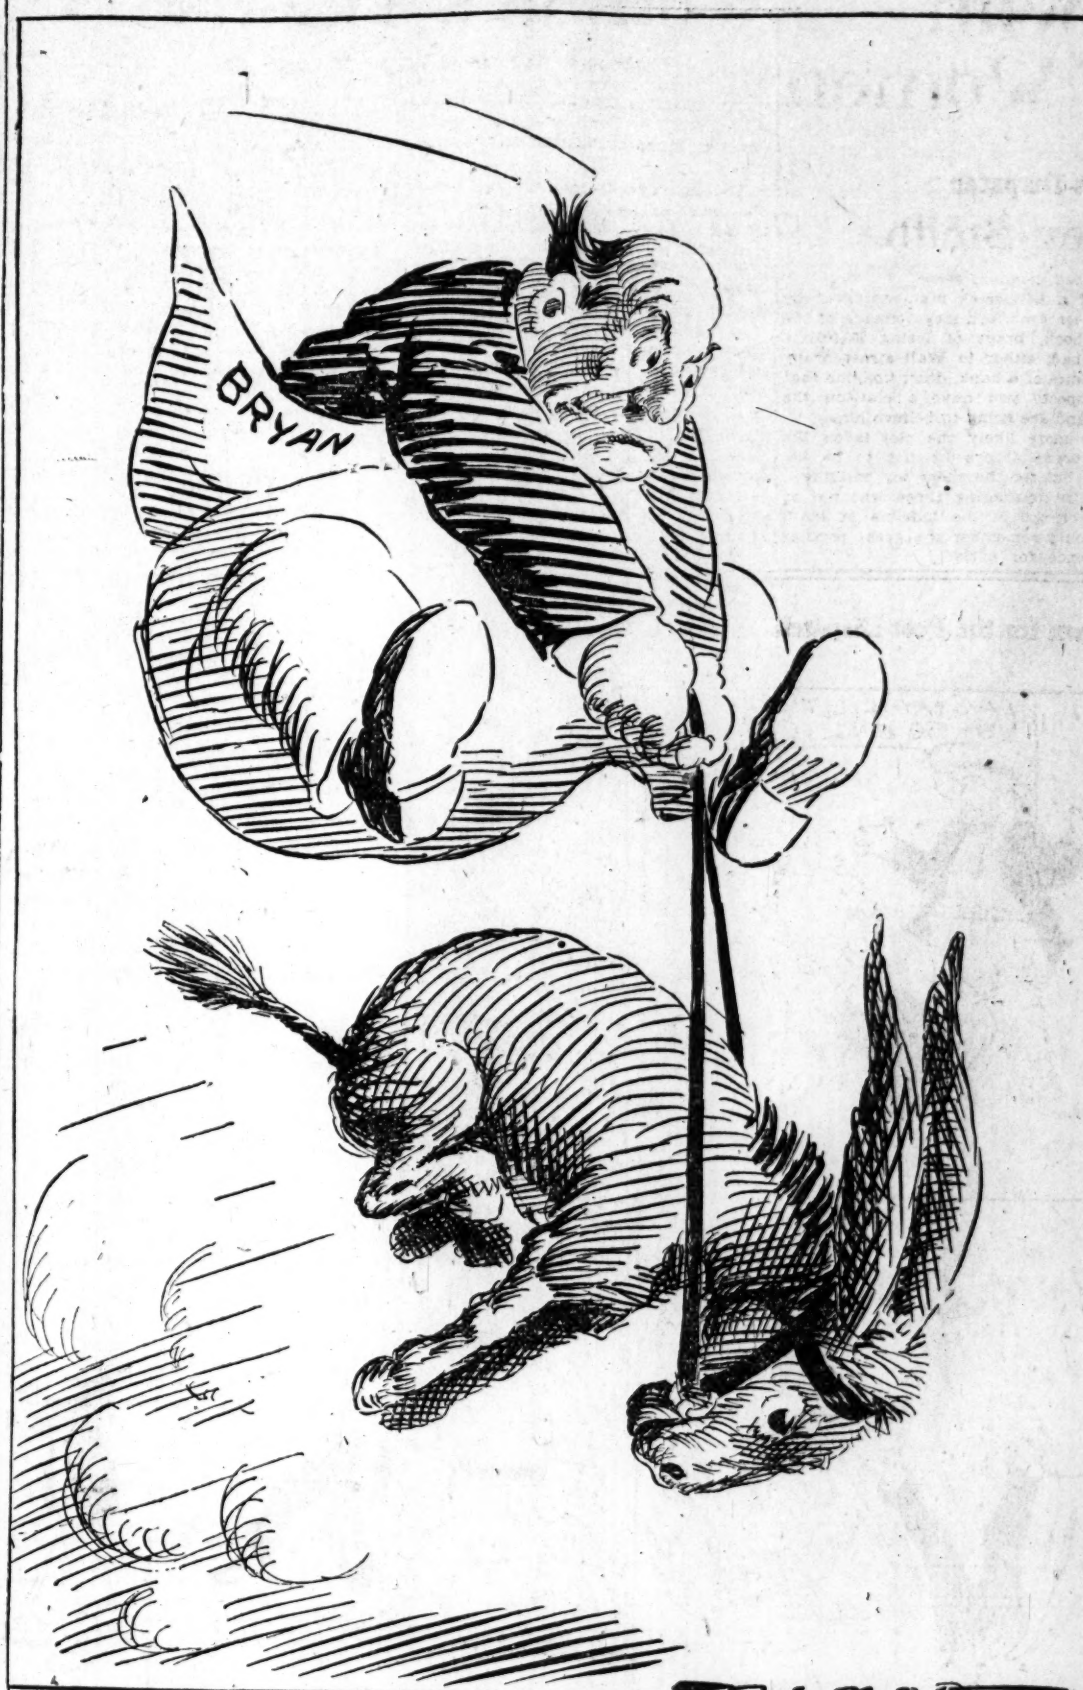

His Greatest Philanthropy.

From the Chicago Journal.
According to John W. Gates, Carnegie "bunked" the Steel Trust out of $100,000. But poor old Carnegie footed the bill! Great little philanthropist, Andy!

Deceiving Whiskers.

AGAIN!

JUST A MINUTE.

JUNE RHAPSODY NO. 1561.

When the red gets back on the rambler vine
Is a fine and dandy season, too.
Then it is that the skies incline
To iridescent shades of blue.
The heart of the earth is blithe and young,
The sun is smiling and benign,
And ah! what tender songs are sung,
When the red gets back on the rambler vine.

When the red gets back on the rambler vine
The breath of October bloom is sweet,
And the sun goes down in red wine
Across the fields of waving wheat.
The dusk is filled with mellow bells,
With doves soft-mourning, and with kine
Deep-lowing from the forest dells,
When the red gets back on the rambler vine.

When the red gets back on the rambler vine
The sickle sings upon the breeze,
And the dapple sunlight comes to shine
Beneath the cool and shady trees.
It's a bully time to lie around
And long and leisurely recline
Upon the green, sweet-smelling ground,
When the red gets back on the rambler vine.

THE JUNE RISE.

"I see the Yaqui Indians rose yesterday."
"Yes, that's right—June 1."

FORECASTING THE WEATHER.

There is, apparently, a growing disposition in Congress to regard the United States Weather Bureau as a failure. Almost any member of that body knows someone back home who can beat the bureau all hollow. Our own Dr. Irl Hicks is frequently mentioned as more worthy of trust and maintenance than that extensive and costly organization headed by so eminent a meteorologist as Prof. Willis Moore.

Isn't there a means of getting at it? The Weather Bureau has been dealing with weather a good many years. Dr. Hicks has been in the business some little time. Would a comparison of results for ten or fifteen years be too invidious? If the Government should have been publishing the Hicks almanac all these years it is about time it set about it. The weather, after all, is about as interesting as the history of the Government mail service is hauling around for less than it costs.

There could be worse things than a Government subsidy for an almanac written by somebody who really scores a reasonable number of hits, not to speak of the long period of preparation this service affords.

"The theory of the $500 slogan prize, I suppose, is that everybody will try twice as hard."
"Yes. Together with the consideration that if the next grist were twice as good it wouldn't do any harm."

WHY NOT?

The motor cop had just rounded up one of these automobiles which puts up a pillar of smoke.
"You don't mean to say that I was violating the speed ordinance?" cried the driver.
"No," said the officer, "but you were violating the anti-smoke ordinance."

NOT NOW.

"Have we any blanket Indians in the country now?"
"No, I don't think there is an Indian in the country who could afford a blanket at what they are selling for now."

IN A WAY.

"Going abroad this summer?"
"Yes. That is, we are going to spend a couple of weeks in Milwaukee."

BACK ON THE JOB.

ABOUT SONGS.
The point that a truly great state song could scarcely have come out of such a contest is not very well taken. We have always the history of Verdi's "Aida" to prove that music of a high degree can be written to order. This beautiful opera is called the composer's masterpiece, and yet he produced it under conditions not very much differing from those under which we were all invited to write a state song.

HOW IT IS.

"The theory of the $500 slogan prize, I suppose, is that everybody will try twice as hard."

HOUSEKEEPER.—Blow mixture of borax and red pepper into all places in the articles you are to move, which would be likely to harbor roaches.

ENERGY.—Compositions received with delight by friends are not always so received by publishers and public. Ask music store to put you in communication with an expert.

UNANSWERED.—It is true that in the long list of bakers doing business in St. Louis only a few names are German. In fact, there are more German names in the city directory than any other.

MRS. JONES.—No moving pictures have ever been taken of the Oberammergau Passion Play, but such pictures have been made by actors who posed for them. The play has been shown here several times.

HAGEN.—"Wells" Spring, in Forest Park, Feb. 21, 1911: Nitrogen as free ammonia, .02; nitrogen as albuminoid ammonia, .03; nitrogen as nitrites, none; nitrogen as nitrates, .88; nitrogen consumed, .4; chloride, .5; alkalinity, .28.

READER.—We would not advise three pickles a day for any stout person, unless the pickles are very small. Never take vinegar to reduce flesh. Pickles, however, there is a rumor of one man having been relieved of indigestion by eating a pickle.

J. W. M.—First anniversary, cotton, paper or even iron. Cotton presents: Bureau scarfs, shirt waists, stocks, belts, a Marcelline spread, lawn or cretonne parol, a dainty cushion, crash curtains, a cretonne laundry or shop bag. A cotton umbrella might please the husband.

In Missouri the penalty for wife abandonment is imprisonment in jail not more than a year and fine of $50 to $100 or both. Wife bears the expense of the husband back for trial, which is a fine thing for hubby when his wife is very poor.

SUBSCRIBER.—The four-handed game of tennis is played by two persons on each side in a double court, the feet wider on each side than the single court in a manner similar to the single-handed game. In the service the ball must drop in the rectangle bounded by the service, service side and half-court lines. If W and X were playing Y and Z, the order of the service is WYXZ, WYXZ, etc. The service is returned alternately by the two partners who are strikers out throughout each game; but when once the service has been returned either partner may take the ball. URPTE.—Dumplings should be dropped into the water one at a time. Light, delicious dumplings. Stir with a spoon, add butter, using tips of fingers; then add, gradually, three-fourths cup milk, mixing with case-knife. Cook on a flour board, pat and roll out to half an inch in thickness. Scatter with butter, butter first dipped in flour. Place closely together in buttered steamer, put over fire of boiling water, cover tightly and let steam 14 minutes. If steamer is not at hand, perforate a tin plate, grease with butter, and serve.

Take from three or four small rolls and cut the crumbs in small pieces. Put into a basin, add milk, mix with a spoon, and cook for 20 minutes. Press to drain off superfluous milk, put in a saucepan and beat over the fire with a spoon until hot. Set back and season with salt and pepper. Cut half pound bacon in small pieces and fry with some of the crumbs cut in dice. Mix fried crumbs and bacon with soup, bread, butter, and enough beaten egg to bind the mixture without making it stiff. Season with equal-sized masses, roll evenly round. Flouring the hands freely. Plunge into a saucepan of salt boiling water and cook 10 minutes without uncovering. Drain, put on a hot dish, pour over brown sauce and serve.

PLEASE.—Roaches: (1) Bait roach trap with beer and set it in basement at night. It will be full of them in the morning. See that there is no water in the basement. (2) Borax, burned on a shovel or old tin and sprinkled in their runways. (3) Spread white hellebore on sides of holes potatoes over the night. (4) One pound cornstarch and one-fourth pound borax—carefully mixed, together and laid thickly around their haunts. (5) A mixture of borax and red pepper, blown with a bellows into every crack and crevice, and scattered over stationary tubs, shelves and sink overflows. Powdered sugar may be added to the mixture. (6) A weak solution of turpentine poured over the roaches. (7) Scattered about the floor at night, and two or three repetitions will exterminate them. (8) Salt. Boiled potatoes in their haunts. Soak shelves with clove tea and put tarred paper in the floor. (9) Scalding water for all places. Plunge every pot, kettle, etc., in boiling water. Scatter leaves from teapot wherever the pests are. (10) A florist has discovered a way of killing them. A pint fruit jar containing a scrap of bacon happened to be left over night on one of his greenhouses. In the morning a dozen or more cockroaches were vainly trying to climb the slippery sides of the glass jar. The florist has succeeded in ridding his greenhouse of these pests. The cockroaches which formerly ate such high-priced plants as orchids and gardenias, it is necessary to state, are on paper outside of the jar, so the insects can get sufficient food to climb.

Little Talks With the Wise Women

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

A CULINARY expert who is conducting a cooking class for young men has made the assertion that her masculine pupils show more aptitude for the art preservative of life than any group of girls she has ever taught.

Is it possible that her discovery heralds the solution of the servant problem? Will Bridget and Marie, Freda and Wilhelmina yield the skillet and the carpet sweeper to the more competent hands of Terence, Armand, Elmer and Carl?

It is asserted often and truthfully that man's pre-eminence of achievement extends even to the kitchen, that no woman cook has ever equalled the performance of certain famous chefs.

And there is one supreme reason why men should make better cooks than women: They eat with a keener pleasure, suffer more painfully from hunger and are more discriminating as to the fine shades of culinary skill.

As an intense interest in one's work is the first essential of success, there may lie the explanation of why all the blue ribbons of the kitchen have gone to men.

Another probable cause lies in that much-quoted line of Byron's, "Man's love is of his life a thing apart; 'tis woman's whole existence." The reason why female sentimentality should spoil the broth or over-broil the beefsteak may not be immediately apparent. And it may be objected that men are quite as sentimental as women.

So they are, but not during business hours.

Man, who has had to work for his bread since the dawn of civilization, has learned to concentrate his mind upon the business of the moment, to systematize his emotions, to reserve sentiment for his leisure hours.

His love and his work have been entirely separate, while woman's love and work till very recently have been necessarily coincidental.

The Spur to Art.

Rather a serious way of explaining why a female cook is more likely to let her disappointment in love burn her employer's roast, isn't it? But I have a female cook—a Frenchwoman—and on days when she receives a letter from a certain Italian chef she cooks with a brilliancy and technique that Escoffier himself could not surpass.

But on the letterless days, when the postman whistles shrilly by the house, and she hears in that cool, oblivious note the knell of love, the plates are cold, the roast is overdone and the drooping, anesthetic sauce suggests that it has been boiled in tears.

Now, a man cook, if disappointed in love, might cut his throat before breakfast or hang himself in the laundry after serving a perfect dinner. He would realize that there are times for work and other times for sentiment. So may the good work of Grace Chace flourish and multiply the number of male cooks!

TRUTH is dying out among the English," observed Lord Justice Vaughan Williams of London, the other day.

And an English Journalist, in informing the judicial vicarage that there are 45,000,000 descendants of Ananias in Great Britain.

Blood is thicker than water, and I am not sure the United States census man couldn't beat these figures. The answer might depend on whether the enlarged Ananias Club would allow an associate order of Sapphiras, for there's a Sapphira for every Ananias in the world. I don't mean that men have married generally to women who prevaricate. On the contrary, the wife or husband of a confirmed liar is apt to tell the undeviating truth from sheer disgust. The liar, like the poet, or the Siamese twin, is born, and not infrequently his lies are so frequent, foolish and futile that one suspects lying to be a pathological condition. If a woman tells you that fifty, or even a dozen, men have proposed to her, tell her to consult an osteopath. It is more likely that she has a displaced vertebra than that she believes you have Scars of Battle.

A VETERAN in all the panoply of his blue uniform, brass buttons and white buttons and white cotton gloves, was on his way to a Fourth of July picnic on the outskirts of the village. A stranger boarded the car and the veteran, leaning across his wife, engaged the man in conversation.

The talk soon turned to warfare, and the veteran said:

"Yes, sir; I've seen 'fights', I got this gash across the cheek at Chickamauga. My stiff leg, by gosh, comes from a ball in the knee—Chancellorsville. This thumbnail here was shot off at Gettysburg. I lost the tip of my ear at Spottsylvania."

"Dear me," said the stranger, "how interesting! You have, indeed, sir, seen no fighting. But tell me, how did you get that long, deep, murderous dent down the side of your nose? A cavalry charge—hand-to-hand engagement, sir?"

The veteran frowned and ignored the question. He began to talk about the heat. But his wife interrupted.

"Go on, Bill," she said impatiently. "Tell the gentleman how you got the dent in your nose."

"You shut up, Hannah!" said the veteran.

"I won't nuther," said the old woman. "For it just about riles the skin off me to hear you braggin' and braggin' about the marks you got in the war, whilst you won't never open your head about the finest and most noticeable mark of all—the one I give you with the fire-works at the fair."

Woman's Handicap in Work Is Her Sex

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Ethel Lloyd Patterson.

IT is absolutely impossible to forget a woman's sex in business," a Supreme Court Justice told me, "and what is more to the point, her sex should not be forgotten."

"Of course, in the highest intellectual and artistic ranges sex may seem to be effaced. George Eliot and Sappho take rank with the bravest of their competitors. In middle class labor, like school teaching, stenography and journalism, we find woman competing with man on even terms. Nevertheless, I tell you there is no such thing as even terms in middle class labor. A woman's sex has got to count one way or the other."

I protested. "Women, even in the fields you refer to as middle class, compete with men from a purely intellectual standpoint. I can't see how their sex affects their work. Now, in physical labor I can quite understand."

"Ah! in physical labor!" exclaimed the Judge. "In physical labor, here you have it! In industry, as apart from art, or home-making, woman is doomed to cruel and unequal competition with man. In a treadmill she weighs less; in gathering fruit from a tree she has a shorter reach; in every athletic competition with her brother he outdoes her two to one. Of course it does sometimes appear that woman has a greater aptitude for certain kinds of service than man. She can even thus command a higher wage for greater efficiency. As a nurse and kindergarten she seems to have an exclusive field. But in productive industry in general woman can ask no favor of her male rival. The law of supply and demand is merciless."

"But facing the fact that economic pressure has driven great numbers of women out into the world to earn their own living, whatever their personal choice in the matter might have been," I explained, "don't you think, the fairest thing you can do, once they are there, is to treat them as industriously sexless?"

"Ah! you ask me an impossibility of man. As long as sex exists anywhere, sex must exist everywhere. Take your own case, the case of a journalist, for example. Do you suppose your womanly nerves would not shrink from certain stories which you might be assigned to cover? Do you suppose it would be possible for your editor, or whoever directs your work, to give you any and all stories to write regardless of the fact that you are a woman? And if through any mischance you were treated in such a manner, do you not suppose that the heart of every right thinking man would bleed for you?"

"Yet there can be no fact in life that a woman does not have to face equally with a man," I remarked.

"To be sure, woman does have to face the most important fact in the world. That is just why she should be spared certain other crudities. I refer to the fact of motherhood."

"Still, no one who bargains with a woman for her personal services or the product of her industrial labor can avoid the reflection that she is destined by nature to be the mother of the race. Nor can any woman under 60 years of age, however immersed in commercial affairs, escape the thought that even to her there may yet come a call to the supreme task."

Jungle Tales for Children.

JIMMY, come here," said Mr. Monkey one day.

"What do you want, Pop?" asked Jimmy.

"Don't you call me 'Pop' because I am going to whip you for your mother, and when I get done I will give you some more just on my own hook," said Mr. Monkey.

"Are you really going to fan me, father?" asked Jimmy, peeking in at the kitchen door.

"Well, your mother left a note saying for me to whip you, and I have to do it," said Jimmy's father.

"What are you going to whip me for?" asked Jimmy.

"I don't know. I am just going to wallop you because your mother wants me to," said his father.

"All right," said Jimmy, "when do you want to begin?"

"I'll begin right now, you scamp. Come here."

Then Jimmy walked slowly toward his father.

"Father, dear," began Jimmy, "Mrs. Baboon was here today and she had on a most beautiful hat, with flowers and all that, and she was talking about you."

"About me? What did she say?"

"She told mother that you were growing handsomer every day, and that she thought mother ought to be real proud of you, and she said you were so good and kind to mother," said Jimmy.

"Upon my soul, did she really?" asked Mr. Monkey, as he put down the Jungle Town News and lit his pipe. When he looked up Jimmy had scampered out the front door.

The Noisy Kind.

MARK TWAIN in an after-dinner speech in Bermuda once talked of gratitude. He didn't much care, he said, for gratitude of the noisy, boisterous kind.

"Why," he exclaimed, "when some men discharge an obligation, you can hear the report for miles around."

Mr. and Mrs. Jarr.

He Tries to Be Diplomatic and Complimentary but What Is the Use When She Picks Him Up
Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Roy L. McCardell.

"WELL, don't you notice any thing?" asked Mrs. Jarr when Mr. Jarr came home from the other evening and took his seat by the front window while awaiting the supper summons.

"Yes, I notice the children have chalked up the steps of the flat across the way. Little villains!" said Mr. Jarr.

"Oh, you needn't say 'little villains'!" replied Mrs. Jarr. "It wasn't OUR children that did it. You are always picking on our children. It's a pity you can't say something that will encourage them, instead of hurting the poor little things' feelings. For, bet- ter children, if I do say it myself."

"I didn't say it was our children. I feel sure they wouldn't do such a thing," said Mr. Jarr hastily. "But you were asking me if I didn't notice something. I see now what you mean—your new dress? It is very becoming. Of course, I noticed it, but I pretended not to see what you would say. It's a very nice dress, indeed. When did you get it?"

"When did I get it? THIS a new dress?"

Mrs. Jarr shot the double barreled question at him almost spitefully.

"Why, this dress is an old thing I've had three years! Please don't be sarcastic. Mr. Jarr, I do need a new dress. I need a lot of them. But I don't think it very becoming of you to twist me about it."

"I wasn't twisting you," said Mr. Jarr. "You always look so neat, and you do look so neat NOW that, really, I thought you were wearing a new dress."

"Well, I'm not!" said Mrs. Jarr. "It costs so much to run this house that I have given up all hope of ever having any new clothes. But, as you never do notice anything, I'll have to tell you. Don't you see how clean everything looks?"

"Everything always looks so clean here," said Mr. Jarr, trying to get back into favor. "That I must confess I do not notice anything special in the usual brightness of the place."

"Well, I've had the place vacuum cleaned," said Mrs. Jarr. "We won't have to have the carpets and rugs taken up this summer."

"That's good!" said Mr. Jarr. "And he means it, too. Housecleaning was no happy time for him."

"Of course, it's a big nuisance," said Mrs. Jarr. "That wagon in front, pumping and throbbing away—and the hose run up to the window—does attract everybody in the neighborhood, children especially. But I just told the man in charge to not let any grown people look at the glass place where the dust can be seen go-

I have to pay out six dollars of my good money to have my house cleaned according to modern methods, do you think I am going to have it done so nobody will know it?"

"Oh, it's a matter of pride, is it?" asked Mr. Jarr.

"It's a matter of six dollars for a flat this size," said Mrs. Jarr. "And if I am to pay out that much money these hard times I am going to have the work done right, and I want people to know it's being done, too."

"That awful man Hicks downstairs complained to the janitor because the men made so much noise hauling up these. It's no wonder his wife leaves him and goes home to her people. He's got his arm in a sling. Something's always happening to him, and I'm glad of it."

"How can a man have any luck who isn't good to his wife?" said Mr. Jarr.

"He doesn't deserve it."

"You think it only just, then, that a man who is mean to his wife should have bad luck?" asked Mrs. Jarr.

"I surely do," was the reply. "And they don't have any luck, either. Don't you think it just?"

"Well," said Mrs. Jarr, musingly, "I wouldn't like to think that you try to be kind to me, not because you love me, but because you are superstitious. But, even if that is so, I suppose I should be thankful."

"Gee whiz! I'm in bad, no matter what I say," cried Mr. Jarr.

But just then Gertrude, the light-running domestic, announced that dinner was served.

Getting in Bad.

A WELL meaning Washington florist was the cause of much embarrassment to a young man who was in love with a rich and beautiful girl.

It appears that one afternoon she informed the young man that the next day would be her birthday, whereupon the suitor remarked that he would the next morning send her some roses, one rose for each year.

That night he wrote a note to his florist ordering the delivery of 30 roses for the young woman. And, thinking to improve on it, he said to his clerk: "Here's an order from young Jones for 30 roses. He's one of my best customers, so I'll throw in 10 for good measure."—Lippincott's.

Got His Money's Worth.

"WHAT'll you have?" asked the barkeeper.

"Oh, I guess you may give me a mint julep," he suggested.

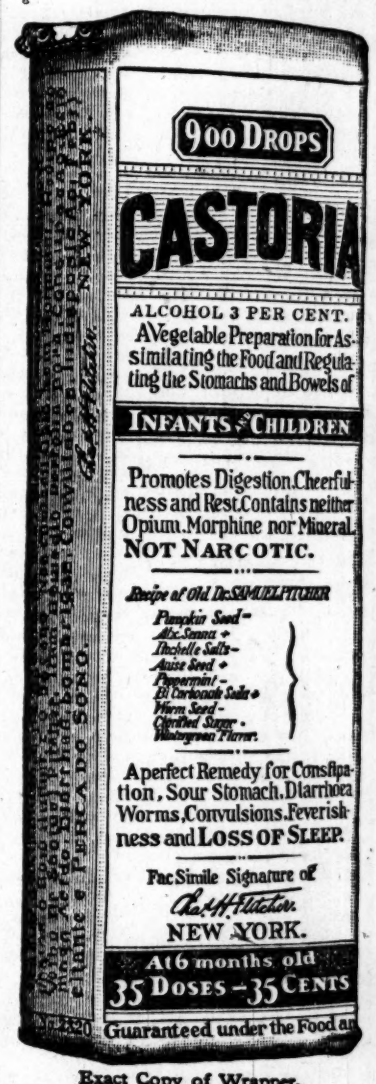

The drink was well mixed, he enjoyed it pretty well, but looked rather blank at the barkeeper when the latter threw down a check for 20 cents.

"What kind of a price is that?" he exclaimed.

"That's our price," said the barkeeper.

"All right," the stranger said. "I'll not get the worst of this deal," and he coolly gathered the mint from the glass, thrust it into an inside pocket, paid his check and waded out of the bar.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Letters from Prominent Druggists addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

B. J. Briggs & Co., of Providence, R. I., say: "We have sold Fletcher's Castoria in our three stores for the past twenty years and consider it one of the best preparations on the market."

E. W. Stucky, of Indianapolis, Ind., says: "To say that we have recommended and sold your Castoria for years is the best endorsement we can possibly give any preparation. It is surely full of merit and worthy of recommendation."

Henry R. Gray, of Montreal, Que., says: "I would say that your Castoria for children is in large demand and that it gives general satisfaction. Not being a secret nostrum many medical men order it when circumstances indicate the use of such a preparation."

W. G. Marshall, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "We have found your Castoria to be not only one of the best sellers in the medicine market, but a preparation that gives almost universal satisfaction; in fact we cannot recall having had a single complaint from any of our customers who have used it."

Owens & Minor Drug Co., of Richmond, Va., says: "It is with pleasure that we lend our endorsement to Castoria, a preparation of proven merit. During our long experience in the drug business we have had abundant occasion to note the popularity of the genuine Fletcher's Castoria, which we unhesitatingly recommend."

Brannen & Anthony of Atlanta, Ga., say: "No doubt if we were called upon to state positively what medicine we had sold for the greatest length of time, the greatest number of bottles sold, and the most satisfactory preparation to us and also to the customer, we feel that we could safely and conscientiously say Fletcher's Castoria."

When near the completion of his first day's work on the Clayton division of the United Railways, J. E. Carter, a conductor, was knocked from his car by a pole at 9 p. m. Thursday. His car was running east near the Price road when he stood on the rear step and leaned out to see if the track was clear. Motorman Ott did not know of the accident until a passenger told him. He reversed the car, picked up the unconscious conductor. After receiving emergency treatment Carter was taken to his home at 4611 Page boulevard. The left side of his face was bruised.

THREE TOTS WORK LIKE TROJANS TO SAVE THE BABIES

TRUE SERVICE OF LOVE

It's All to Help Tenement Children, Menaced With Death
in Summer's Heat.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Johanna Lucille Weil, 5744
Barnier avenue 10.00

St. Louis children are now working with beautiful enthusiasm for the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund, their earnest efforts doing much toward the saving of the little children of the tenements, menaced with sickness and death during the summer's heat.

Yesterday little Johanna Lucille Weil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Weil of 5744 Barnier avenue, contributed $10 to the fund, accompanied by the following pretty letter:

Dear Mr. Editor:

I am so glad that I can send you this ten dollars, which I hope you will add to your Pure Milk Fund to save the poor suffering babies. Mother had spoken to me a number of times of the great need for pure milk for the dear little babies whose parents, unfortunately, could not secure it for them. Although I am only a little girl, I felt that I should like to do something to help this worthy cause.

I raffled a copy of Burns' Poems at ten cents a chance and, after about four hours' work, I had disposed of the one hundred chances. I sincerely hope that this mite will do some good, and that, with renewed effort, I can do something more during the summer.

Mrs. A. P. Brigham, 5627 Bartner avenue, held No. 13, which won the book. Little Ruthy Ward drew out the winning number.

JOHANNA LUCILLE WEIL,
5744 Barnier avenue.

A willing worker indeed, and a very successful one, is this dear little girl, and the thanks of the Post-Dispatch, in behalf of the Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund are hereby extended to her.

Self Lemonade for Free.

Also are thanks due to two other children, a girl and a boy, each 9 years old—little Gertrude Everson of 1903 Union avenue, and little Francis Goddard of 1606, next door, who, on Memorial day, sold lemonade for the benefit of the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund, realizing 21 cents thereby, which they gladly and with warranted pride sent straightway to the Post-Dispatch.

They made great preparations for their day of business life, and nobody ever worked more zealously than they. Little Gertrude Everson's mother says that Gertrude was particularly anxious to learn how much it cost each day to provide a tenement baby with healthful food, and, learning that the cost was 15 cents, went into her venture with the air of one who was about to feed a thousand babies. She and her partner, little Francis Goddard, were tremendously busy thereafter, and selling the lemonade at a penny a glass, they did nobly for the fund.

It's the splendid help of children such as these that saves the life of many and many a little child of the tenements during the hot summer time. Every child can help some other child—that's the noblest true thought that animates them. And the slogan to which they rally for the good work is full of hope for the little children of the poor, the little children whom they seek to help.

"Save the Babies!" That's the slogan of the helping children.

Save the Babies!

Campus and Airdome Benefit.

Associate Managers Broderick and Boardman of the St. Louis University.

Campus Airdome, King's highway near Manchester avenue, where a great benefit for the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund will be given next Thursday evening, are tonight presenting a most entertaining bill of motion pictures and vaudeville and are arranging a program of special attractiveness for the benefit.

Among the notable new vaudeville stars engaged is John A. Dauer, the popular singer of topical songs, who will appear tonight and tomorrow night, and also at next week's benefit performance. He is one of the cleverest St. Louis singers and never fails to make a hit with his audiences.

At next Thursday evening's benefit for the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund it has been decided to permit automobiles to enter the airdome grounds. Their occupants may be taken to the grand stand and the machines stationed in a distant part of the grounds.

The Campus Airdome dancing floor, the largest open-air dancing floor in the city, will be finished and ready for use by tomorrow night. The Taylor cars carry passengers to within 20 yards of the airdome gate.

YOUR GRAY HAIRS QUICKLY VANISH.
A HARMLESS REMEDY RESTORES COLOR.

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs, which, unfortunately, are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hairs, however, are not always an indication of advancing age, for many people have gray hairs quite early in life. Of course, it is unnatural, and indicates that there is something wrong with the individual, and that Nature needs assistance in correcting the trouble. The same is true of hair that is constantly falling out and becoming thinner every day. If everything is right with Nature, the hair, even in comparative old people, should be long, thick and glossy, without even a streak of gray.

Lee Bush, a negro prisoner, remained and gave the alarm, two hours later. Officers are searching for the fugitives.

The Social Buccaneer
A Mystery Story
By FREDERIC S. ISHAM
First of the Post-Dispatch
Series of Six Famous Novels Begins Next Monday
THERE is a story in connection with this latest novel that is worth relating. One morning in Hong Kong, China, Mr. Isham picked up one of the local newspapers. On the first page was a story telling how the rice merchants had raised the price to a point where it was prohibitive with a large class of the populace. Realizing this, an old pirate, who for years had operated up the river, began a warfare against the rice merchants, carrying away their supplies and distributing them free among the needy.
Here was a unique situation, the possibilities of which when applied to modern life in America Mr. Isham was quick to recognize. How the high society New York hero in "The Social Buccaneer" wrings money from the rich to bestow upon the poor—but you'll have to read the very dramatic and tense story yourself to fully appreciate the delightful situations that arise.

CARDINALS HAVE FINE CHANCE TO RAISE STANDING

Good Play Against Eastern Clubs Will See Team Shift to First Division.

EASIER WORK IS AHEAD

Completion of Double-Headers Means Less Strenuous Competition for the Team.

Barger or Bell to Work in Inaugural With the Cardinals

THE Superbas of Brooklyn arrived Friday for a four-game series with the Cardinals, commencing at League Park Friday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock. Bill Dahlen's team is occupying seventh position.

According to the Brooklyn manager, he will send Cy Barger or George Bell to the hill to oppose the Cardinals in the inaugural contest here. It is Bill Steele's turn to pitch, according to Manager Breenahan.

WITH that terrible string of double-headers finished, the going should be easier for the Cardinals for the next two weeks. Playing eight games in four days has been an awful strain on the players. It was unusually hot during the stay of the Reds here, and while Frank Smith was pitching such excellent ball in the final game Thursday the Cardinals seemed "dopey." However, that slowness left as soon as Evans hit his homer and put the team very much in the game.

The Western invasion of the Eastern teams begins Friday. In the next two weeks it is probable that considerable shifting will be done by the different teams.

Brooklyn, Boston, Philadelphia and New York call in order on the Cardinals. They proved no terrors for the Breenahan outfit when they recently went calling in the East. Against the four Atlantic members of the National League the Cardinals won 11 of the 15 games. The five victories, scored in the series with the Reds means that the Cardinals have won 16 of their last 22 games. That's a better record than any other team in the National League can boast of.

Chance to Boost Position. No club in the National League is playing better ball than the Cardinals right now. With good pitching Manager Breenahan says he expects the team to continue its good work.

The Superbas and Rascals call on the Cardinals first. If they prove as easy for the locals on the home lot as they did in the East it will probably mean that the Cardinals will hop into the first division, as right now they are but two games behind the Pirates of Pittsburgh, who occupy fourth place.

In the East the Cardinals won four successive games from the Boston team, while Brooklyn was only able to take one of the four games played with the Cardinals. If the Cardinals take six or seven of their next eight games they are almost certain to rub elbows with the pennant contenders. And with the Brooklyn and Boston teams as the next foes that isn't an impossibility.

Easier Work for Pitchers.

For the next two weeks the Cardinals will be called on for only one daily show. That will enable the pitchers to get back in their old-time form, as they have been well used up since the Cardinals returned from their Eastern trip. Since last Saturday Harry Sallee has pitched three games. Harmon and Dahlen have each afflicted in two, while Steele pitched one game and parts of two others against the Reds. That's too much work, especially under the present climatic conditions.

The Cardinals are but five games behind the Giants of New York, who are leading the procession. They are but four games behind the Pirates, and two games behind the Phillies. A slip by any of the four leaders, coupled with a continuation of the Cardinals' good work, will see St. Louis in the first division.

TENNIS MATCH EASY FOR DOUBLES STARS

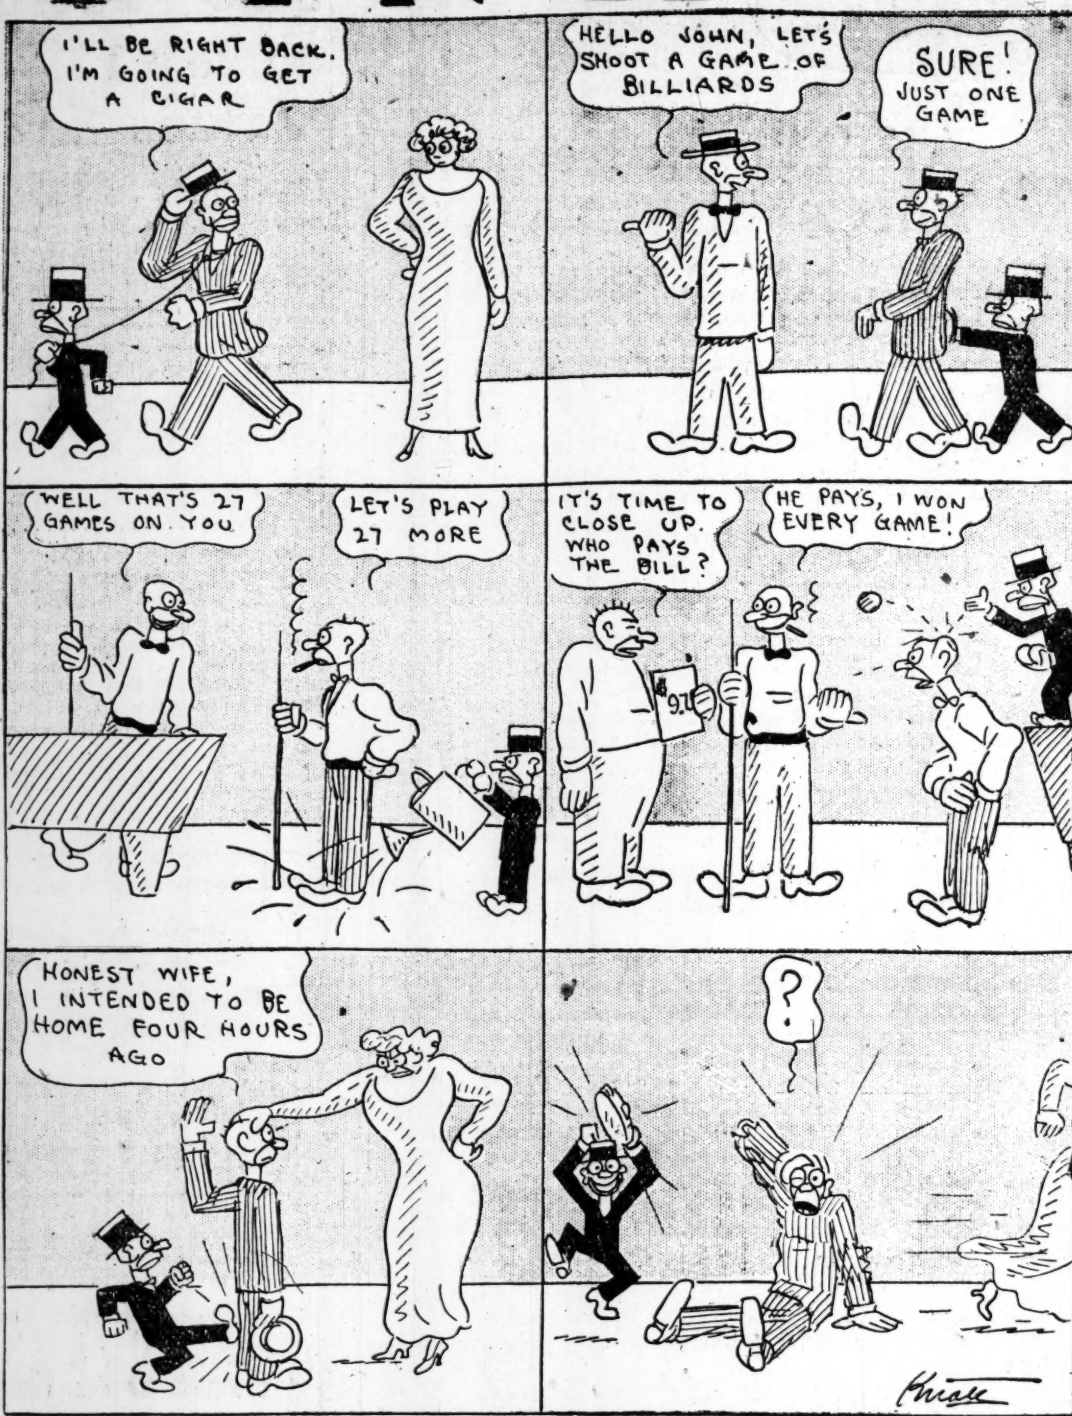

Drummond Jones and Rola Hoerl defeated M. D. MacDonald and Oscar G. G. G. in the second round of the class A tennis tournament doubles at the Triple A in Forest Park Thursday afternoon. In straight sets, 6-4, 6-3. Hoerl and Jones are the two strongest players at the Triple A and are almost certain to win in the doubles.

Mound City Plan Fish-Fry.

WRAY'S COLUMN

APPROACHES A MIRACLE.

PROBABLY the most remarkable series of baseball games ever played in this city, at least since the middle ages of sport, was that just concluded with Cincinnati. The oldest inhabitant has heard of the "game" team, the come-from-behind and beat-'em-up sort; but he probably does not recall in all his experience a club that could come close to the achievement of the Cardinals. Three times, when hopelessly out of the running—once so far out that Roger himself threw up his hands in disgust and quit the game for good—did the Cardinals come back and win. Here's a record of "comeback" that is a sort of preliminary test of mettle. The Cardinals showed there in their quality and tenacity of spirit that Cincinnati never had a moment's rest. The Cardinals showed there in their quality and tenacity of spirit that Cincinnati never had a moment's rest. The Cardinals showed there in their quality and tenacity of spirit that Cincinnati never had a moment's rest.

THE Reds, however, were not so woefully outplayed, as the results of the massacre would indicate. Here are the totals for the seven games:

CARDINALS: R. H. E. Pts. St. Louis 16 16 16 328 Cincinnati 44 75 9 373

Thus the Reds' defense shows stronger than that of the Cardinals and the attack approximates the same—at least there is not enough difference to justify a proportion of five victories to two against the Cincinnati team.

Here's a record of "comeback" that is a sort of preliminary test of mettle. The Cardinals showed there in their quality and tenacity of spirit that Cincinnati never had a moment's rest. The Cardinals showed there in their quality and tenacity of spirit that Cincinnati never had a moment's rest.

MAY 29. Cardinals outgamed the Reds at the close of the game after a ding-dong battle, score 7 to 6. Overcame a lead of four runs in the seventh inning, game ended in a tie, 5-5.

MAY 30. Sallee outpitched Frank Smith and won a commonplace victory for the Cardinals. Fromme's pitching was excellent and the Cardinals were unable to rattle him, although they knocked at the door, score 4-2, the Reds.

MAY 31. Harmon won a 4-2 duel with McQuillan, the Cardinals breaking a tie with an eight-inning rally of two runs. The Cardinals overcame a lead of eight runs by rallies in the sixth and seventh innings, the latter netting 10 runs, final score, 15 to 8. This is almost a record performance of the sort, in recent times.

JUNE 1. Cardinals shut out to the last half of the ninth, rallied for the six runs needed to overcome the Reds' lead of five. Reds won a 6-4 game after getting away with a 4-0 score up to the sixth inning. Mitchell's lucky catch of Mowray's drive with men on was all that saved the Cardinals another come-from-behind victory.

LEADING THE LUCK LEAGUE.

SUCH playing as that of course is not looked upon as normal. If anyone can find pity in his heart Clarke Griffith is the unfortunate wretch that deserves it. While the Cardinals played great, plucky baseball, and deserve all the credit for sticking to the job, this time for the Reds. With any sort of breaks the series could just as well have gone 5-2 in victories for the Reds. Griffith deserves his fate for letting Sugars give away the game of Wednesday and for letting Keefe toss away a shutout win in the ninth Thursday. Such samples of generosity make it a matter of small wonder that the team has not justified wider hopes.

IT NEEDS A SPINE. JUST ONE MORE "IF." F. Roger Breenahan had that Red outfit would hear that club honking down the pennant road, and most of the sedate aggregations above him would be flocking out of the way to the roadside. Smith and McQuillan are going to be great pitchers for the Reds. Keefe looks like the makings, and if they ever put a nine-inning arm on Sugars he is one of the best little fingers in the game. Fromme has shown the best form of his career, and Gaspar was one of the Reds' best fingers last season, and will be good again.

If the Cardinals only had that pitching staff to select from, friends of the team would not now be quaking over the problem. How to wage through a 154-game schedule with only four fairly useful pitchers.

The Reds have a great hitting outfield, and quite a good enough infield to carry the club through. Its catching staff is fine. When one looks at the makeup of the clubs on paper and then glances over the records of the series just concluded, the only argument he can offer in explanation of the failure of the Reds to do better is that IT'S JUST BASEBALL.

SPEED MARVELS TO GET TRYOUT ON RIVER The Carondelet Motor Boat Club at 6300 South Levee, will hold an open motor boat regatta the latter part of this month on the Mississippi River, for which a number of silver cups have been put up as prizes. The entire program has not been announced, but the feature event on the card will be an open race for any boat under 40 feet in length.

It is probable that Hugo Lipper will have his Missouri III in time to take part in the race. Ed Koenig is also to get back in the racing game with the Independence II, in which he has installed a new engine.

The St. Louis Power Boat Association will probably not hold a regatta this year. St. Louis will send a large number of boats to Peoria and Davenport, Io., for the regatta to be held at those places.

NEW YORK FANS NOW CALLING HAL CHASE "QUITTER"

Small Attendance at Yankee-Browns Game Due to Waning Popularity of Manager.

NEW YORK, June 2.—The Browns and the Yankees will try conclusions again this afternoon before a smaller throng than greeted them yesterday. The Browns look a little better than last year's outfit that traveled under that name, but the improvement isn't enough to startle anybody.

To all intents and purposes yesterday the St. Louisans were playing with eight men, so weak was Hallinan at short. It looked as though he just could not field a ball cleanly.

Four errors he made, and three of them resulted in runs. But aside from the weakness of the Browns as a drawing card, that neither explains the comparatively small crowd of yesterday nor the lack of enthusiasm. The crowd was about as noisy a one as you would expect to meet at a deaf-mute picnic. As a matter of fact, the Yankees have lost the popularity they gained last year. Some even go so far as to say that Chase, the idol, has fallen from his pedestal in popular estimation as well as in the confidence of his players.

The word "quitter" is used in connection with him, and it is intimated that since he was well enough to play billiards daily here in New York, after leaving the team on the road, he was well enough to at least remain with his men and direct them.

Players Think Chase Quit. It is reported that the players take this view and think that Chase's illness was mostly a lack of courage in the face of the hard luck that met the team when it went on the road.

However, the Yankees certainly play a listless enough game, and Chase himself does not give a very thrilling example to his men in the way of gingerly effort.

Shotton played like a star in the outfield. His work was of the highest class, but his only hit came his last time up. Meloon's home-run swat in the eighth was as long a hit as ever has been seen on the grounds. It would not have had a lot further to go to clear the fence.

GLEN ECHO TOURNEY IS NARROWING DOWN

In the annual Glen Echo golf championship tournament it is expected that the second round, championship class, will be completed by Saturday evening. A number of matches will be played in the first and second rounds Friday.

S. J. Harbaugh defeated Fred Gardner, 1 up. E. A. Manny won from W. E. Parvin, 3 up and 2 to play, and R. W. Fullerton won from C. L. Swartz in the first round.

Jesse Carleton, president of the club, who has been playing such sensational golf, met Fullerton Thursday afternoon. Carleton won, 3 up and 2 to play. I. W. Lincoln, who many Glen Echo members think will be one of the stars of the open tournaments, played great golf in his tilt with J. W. Frisbie in the second round of the championship class Thursday. Lincoln won, 8 up and 7 to play.

Friday's Schedule. Brooklyn at St. Louis, New York at Chicago, Boston at Cincinnati, Philadelphia at Pittsburgh.

Yesterday's Results. Cardinals, 6-10-2; Cincinnati, 2-9-1; Batteries—Sallee, Zim and Breenahan; Keefe, F. Smith and Clarke. Cincinnati, 6-12-1; St. Louis, 4-6-4; Batteries—F. Smith and Clarke; Laudman and Breenahan.

Johnson is Asked to Battle Wells NEW YORK, June 2.—Jack Johnson, who will sail for England in a few days, has received a cablegram from Hugh McIntosh, offering a big guarantee for a 20-round bout with Bombardier Wells. The British heavyweight champion, Johnson hasn't accepted, but he says that when he arrives on the other side he will agree to terms if there is enough money in sight. McIntosh thinks that Bombardier Wells can beat Johnson if he manages to stay away from the negro for five rounds.

Milburn's Playing All That Saved American Polo Men From Defeat

World's Greatest Player Rips Up Defense of Britons After International Battle Seems Hopelessly Lost.

NEW YORK, June 2.—All New York is agape at the shock handed the much vaunted American polo team which all but came to grief at the hands of the British challengers for the International trophy, at Meadowbrook, Thursday. Before the game the betting on the result of the series of three contests was 15 to 2 on the Yankee players. But the odds were sent skyward when the Englishmen out-played the Americans for the first 20 minutes, and might have won the match had not the dashing Milburn changed places with H. P. Whitney and scored three goals in hurry-up fashion. The final tally was 4 to 3 in favor of the Americans, counting fouls.

Now everyone interested is wondering what the odds will be on the next match, which will be played Monday, instead of Saturday. Capt. Cheape of the British team, requested that the second encounter be held over to give his exhausted men and ponies time to recover. Even with one game safely in the hands of the Americans the odds will hardly be 7 to 1 on the series.

The showing made by the Britons was splendid, and many think that, with ponies as good as the Americans own, the tide would never have turned against the Englishmen.

Victory Due to Milburn. The explanation of the poor start of the Americans is that the superior speed of their horses was neutralized by the soggy turf. To this may be added the fact that the much greater weight of the American players allowed them to outmaneuver the Britons. The recovery from what seemed certain defeat is largely attributed to the dashing work of Milburn, rated the best polo player in the world today.

SOLDAN NO MATCH FOR MCKINLEY NINE

The Soldan High School baseball team proved easy for the McKinley High nine in their St. Louis High School League tilt at St. Louis U. Park, Thursday afternoon. The South Siders winning 6 to 1. Soldan has lost eight games and won none, up to date. Soldan put up a poor game in the field, six misplays being charged to the nine. There was never any doubt as to the result of the game after McKinley showed a quartet of runs across the plate in the third inning. Harold Beebe, who was on the mound for the McKinley team, had the Soldan boys badly puzzled. Neece caught for McKinley, Baker and Walker were the Soldan battery.

M. A. C. ADDS ANOTHER RACE TO JUNE CARD

The Missouri A. C. will give a special silver cup to the man who secures the greatest number of entries for the M. A. C. three-mile junior and 11-mile senior road races, to be held Saturday, June 24. Joe Deffen, the M. A. C. marathon runner, declares that he will put at least 25 boys into the race. It is thought that there will be 500 competitors in the two races. A special event for the newboys is being arranged.

There will be prizes for those who finish first, second and third, and also a special team prize. The boys, at the same time, can compete in the junior marathon, if they are under 17 years of age.

S.S.S. FOR SUMMER SKIN DISEASES

During the summer most persons are annoyed with pimples, boils, rashes or eruptions, while others suffer more severely with Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, or some kindred skin disease. All skin affections come from humors and acids in the circulation. The blood, as it circulates through the system, deposits these humors and acids in the sensitive membranous flesh which lies just beneath the outer skin. This acid matter causes inflammation and a discharge which breaks through the delicate cuticle, and skin diseases are the result. To cure any skin trouble the blood must be freed from all acids and humors, and for this purpose nothing equals S.S.S. It removes every particle of the impurity, enriches the blood, and in this way permanently cures skin diseases. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free. S. S. S. is for sale at drug stores.

MITCHELL'S FINE CATCH SAVES A DOUBLE DEFEAT

Had Mike Missed Mowrey's Drive, Reds Would Have Lost Both Games.

A REMARKABLE running capture of a terrific line drive from Mike Mowrey's bat by Capt. Mike Mitchell of the Reds prevented the Cardinals from winning both ends of the double-header from the Cincinnati team at League Park, Thursday.

Mitchell's catch was one of the biggest bits of burglary of the series. It came in the eighth inning. The Reds had scored six runs while the Cardinals' total was four. Two were on bases and two were out. Mowrey's drive was headed for the fence, midway between where Mitchell and Bates were playing.

At the crack of the bat, Mitchell charged over, extended himself to the limit and grabbed the ball. It deprived Mowrey of a certain triple or home run and the Cardinals of two or three scores.

At matters terminated, the Cardinals and Reds broke even, the Breannan outfit taking the first game after another half-raising nine inning rally. 6-5. The second went to the Reds, 6-4. In the opener, it was Harry Selvie and Ed Zmich vs. Bob Keefe and Frank Smith.

Keefe had pitched excellent ball for eight innings. In that time he scattered four hits. Then the Cardinals started their rally. The Reds had amassed five runs off Selvie in the first and fourth rounds, and it was up to the Cardinals to tally six to win.

Frank Smith succeeded him. He pitched first to Breannan, who coaxed a pass.

With the bases loaded, Jack Ellis, batting for Zmich, drew another pass. It forced over Mowrey with the third run. Huggins' effort was a smash at Smith. The ball got through the chunky fellow and rolled to Egan, who made the play at first base. Oakes scored the fourth run on the play.

It was a sensational rally, and only exceeded by the one the previous day, when the Cardinals came from behind and scored 10 runs in one session. The crowd of 8000 fans simply went crazy. Hats, coats, programs and other things went up in the air. A couple of hundred wild fans rushed on the field and patted the players on the backs, while some jumped on the players' coops and yelled with delight.

Salvie's wildness and an error by Huggins in the opening inning enabled the Reds to pile up a big lead. Selvie couldn't get them over for Becher. Egan laid down a bunt and Salvie hustled the ball to Huggins in time to force Becher at second, but Miller dropped the ball.

Smiling Bob then pliffed third. Bates struck out and Hobbins rolled to Koney, but Mitchell hit a triple to right that scored Becher and Egan. Downey knocked a single to left, and Capt. Mike scored the third run of the round.

The total was raised to five in the fourth. Keefe opened with a triple to right center. Becher got his second hit and scored the pitcher. The Smiler again pliffed and moved to third. Mowrey threw out Egan. Huggins and Koney retired Bates, while Becher tallied.

Manager Breannan did not use Bill Steele in the second game, as expected. Instead, he sent the lanky Grover Laidner, milk to the hill. The Springfield wizard didn't prove troublesome to the Reds. In the first place, he was hit hard, and after the Reds got on the attack, Grover couldn't hold them to the bases. In the six innings he worked eight runners pliffed.

The Cardinals also poked nine hits and four runs off Grover in that time. Then he was succeeded by Ed Zmich, who finished and gets credit for the victory in the first game. Zmich went in with the bases loaded and only one out. He retired the side without being scored on. In the seventh round, he was hit and was wild, allowing two runs.

The Cardinals got one hit off Frank Smith in five innings. Then they hoped onto the plane show. Huggins opened the sixth with a scratch single, but was forced by Hauser. Ellis also singled and sent Hauser to third. Evans poked the Cardinals very much in the running by lifting the ball into the right field seats for a home run. Koney scoring ahead of him.

That made it 4-3 in favor of the Reds. With the score, 4-3 in the sixth, the Cardinals kept plugging. Huggins started the session with a pass, but was again forced by Hauser. Arnold moved to second on a balk while Ellis paraded. Koney shot a single to center that scored Arnold. The runners moved up on Evans' roller to Hobbins. Then Mowrey patted the ball, but Mitchell turned his sensational catch and prevented the Cardinals from tying the contest or taking the lead.

Although Smith failed to foil the Cardinals after relieving Keefe in the opener, he pitched nice ball in the second game. The Cardinals scored six hits off him. Three of these came in one inning and netted a victory.

The names of the batteries are now posted on the League Park scoreboard in small letters. They can be read from the grand stand.

AMERICAN LEAGUE POUND LIVELY BALL

Thursday was a big day in the American League. Eight teams made 106 hits during the four games played. Here's the record of the teams and the total for each game:

New York 11, Browns 9-30.
Detroit 15, Washington 10-29.
Chicago 14, Boston 12-26.
Philadelphia 17, Cleveland 15-22.
Total, 106.

In other words, an average of 13 3/4 hits per game was made by each club. Surely this is indicative of something more than mere bad pitching. The lively ball is at the bottom of it all.

FIGHT FANS GET FIRST FLASH AT WELLS, TONIGHT

British Lightweight Champion
Will Get Tryout in Bout With Cross.

By ROBERT EDGREN.
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 2.—There can't be a new champion of England tonight, because English championships, according to the rules of the National Sporting Club of England can be fought for only on British territory and between British boxers. So if Leach Cross should happen to drop that sleep-producing punch over on Matt Wells at the Madison Athletic Club, he won't get the famous Lord Lonsdale belt. That will still be the property of Matt Wells, who took it away from Freddy Welsh.

Wells has been training over in Chester, Pa., far from the kee of New York sporting writers. But he is to be in the finest kind of condition. So, according to Lawyer Sam, is Leach.

On "dope" the champion should be able to beat Cross without a great deal of trouble; yet it will be a fight, for even Packey McFarland, trying, failed to finish the East side boy in 10 rounds. And Cross was fighting all the way.

Wells didn't show much when he was in America a year or so ago. He was forced to fight middleweights. But all of those who saw the bout for the lightweight championship of England say that he outclassed Freddy Welsh in 15 of the 20 rounds, winning with ease.

If he can fight as well here, he'll make a lot of trouble for American lightweights. Tonight's battle will be at 135 pounds, weighing in at 8 o'clock. In England they fight for the lightweight title weighing 138 at 2 o'clock, so, according to English precedent, Wells classes as a lightweight. Our weight is 135 ringside. There is still a doubt that Wells can make this weight, and his English backers are unwilling to let him try it until he has had a few bouts on this side of the pond.

Attell-Brown Bout Off.

Abe Attell has called off his match with "Knock-Out" Brown. Abe says that he injured his arm again while training with Danny Goodman, by hitting him a hard punch on the jaw. He showed the arm, which is apparently in bad shape. The trouble is with the knuckle at the elbow, which were torn and displaced a few months ago in a fight with Kilbane out West. Attell's collar bone was cracked at the same time, but is as strong as ever now. Attell has promised to fight Brown before anyone else, as soon as he is in good condition again.

TEN-MILE SWIM DATE IS CHANGED

River Championship to Be Held Aug. 19 Instead of on Labor Day.

At a meeting of the Athletic Committee of the Missouri A. C., held Thursday night, it was decided to hold the fifth annual National A. A. U. 10-mile championship in the Mississippi River, Aug. 19, the third Saturday in the month, instead of Labor day, the first Monday in September, as has been the custom for the past four years. The reason for changing the date of the race is that for the past three years it has either been chilly or has rained on Labor day.

The prize for the race will be the $1000 silver cup which must be won three times by a swimmer from a club before that club can gain permanent possession of the trophy. This is a hard rule on the swimmer, as he only receives a special prize each year that he wins.

Dr. Bassett says that it is impossible to change the conditions for the competition, because the National A. A. U. will no longer allow a swimmer to accept a $1000 cup, although Harry Handy, by his three victories, gained permanent possession of the $1000 Buseby trophy.

"Bud" Goodwin of the New York A. C. won the race last year by a narrow margin from McDermott, the young Chicago swimmer, who was a close second. It is not known whether Goodwin will enter this year, although he is hardly probable that he will, as he is displaced with the conditions attached to the big M. A. C. Cup. McDermott will therefore be the favorite to win.

DANIELS CREDITED WITH FOUR RECORDS

NEW YORK, June 2.—The Amateur Athletic Union has just received from the International Swimming Federation, of which the A. A. U. is a member, a list of accepted records, to Jan. 1, 1911. Of these world's records, Charles M. Daniels holds four, more than any other single swimmer, and the International federation has sent Mr. Daniels four shields in token of his honors.

The following are the records held by Daniels: One hundred yards, 53.2 seconds, made at Manchester, England; 100 meters, 1m 24.5s, made at New York; 150 yards, 1m 22.5s, made at Manchester; 220 yards, 2m 32.5s, made at Pittsburgh.

Boxing Circuit is Organized.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 2.—A boxing circuit after the fashion of a vaudeville circuit has been formed with Milwaukee, Indianapolis, Memphis and New Orleans included. It is proposed to route the boxers over this circuit, guaranteeing weekly matches. Five fights at least are guaranteed the boxers in the event of winning.

TWO-MILE CHAMPION IN SPIKES AGAIN

NEW YORK, June 2.—Jack Monument, the two-mile national running champion, has decided to return to the cinder path. He will make his bow to the public next Sunday in a race at Celtic Park over the 1500 yard track. Monument has been in training since the early spring.

and declares he is in the pink of condition. He will be compelled to run to his best form if he wins his race, as his opponents include Melvin Shepard, Wilton Paul of the University of Pennsylvania and Abel Kiviat.

YALE ATHLETES TO GUARD AUTO COURSE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 2.—Shingle Hill, the toughest piece of automobile climbing in Connecticut, is being thoroughly prepared for the annual hill climb of the Yale Automobile club. The course will be policed by the students from the baseball and football squads, under the leadership of Capt. Daly of the football team. The same squad of amateur policemen, under Capt. Daly, made a great success of their work in keeping the field clear at the recent Yale aviation meet.

The established reputable firm of M. E. Croak & Company don't come out with a splash and splurge every week or so announcing some fictitious purchase and by such attempts pulling the wool over the people's eyes to unload merchandise just for the sole purpose for the attempt to reach the goal to do a greater business.

Croak's never fool the people in this style.

Croaks never just for the fascination of doing more business announce a so-called purchase or a so-called sale.

This is a Genuine Sale. Because: Our Lease Expires—We Must Vacate.

Therefore, the entire stock must be sold. For this reason prices have become a trifle secondary consideration. We made one resolution to sell the entire stock regardless of its value and to these ends we therefore direct our entire determination. This we must have accomplished by June 10.

LETTERS REVEAL CARUSO'S ROMANCE WITH A SHOP GIRL

She Asserts They Were Betrothed and She Studies to Fit Herself to Be His Wife.

ASKS $50,000 DAMAGES

"Does She Think Bank Notes Are Bean Stalks?" Is Singer's Reply to Her Demands.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World. Copyright, 1911, by Press Publishing Co. (New York World.) MILAN, Italy, June 2.—Authentic copies of the letters that passed between Enrico Caruso, the famous tenor, and Pauline Caretti, a charming Sicilian beauty, who demands $50,000 as bail for a broken heart, are before the Post-Dispatch correspondent as this dispatch is written.

Caruso forsook Pauline's acquaintance here in Signor Sangiatti's glove store, where she was employed. The singer was captivated and next day the girl received a handsome watch. Thereafter Caruso was generous to her with both gifts and money.

Soon, Pauline asserts, they became betrothed. Realizing her deficiencies, she agreed to study French and otherwise fit herself to be his wife, after accompanying him, with a chaperon, where his engagements took him. The wedding was to be in two years, she declares, and until then she was to be handsomely provided for with costly gowns and liberal allowance of cash.

Their correspondence was in turn hot, tepid and cold. When Caruso went to Berlin, Pauline, accompanied by her father, went to visit him there. She says she was introduced to Caruso's fellow artists as his fiancée and that he gave a grand banquet before she left to return home to Milan.

Caruso's Letters Become Cool.

Caruso's letters then suddenly cooled, became infrequent and finally ceased. Thereupon came Pauline's threat to sue for breach of promise. Caruso's lawyer replied that his client was not liable for damages because he had treated her so generously during their engagement. Nevertheless, the attorney offered to compromise by giving a sum sufficient to set Pauline up in business. Pauline responded with a demand for $50,000 for her damaged feelings. Signor Ceola, Caruso's lawyer, answered that he had not the courage to submit such a "preposterous demand to his client."

Pauline gave him a week to think it over and getting no satisfaction inserted a notice of the suit in a newspaper, as is required by the Italian law. At that time Caruso was in Brussels. He ignored the notice, remarking to a friend that nobody could force him to marry against his will.

"It's no use asking fabulous sums," he said. "Does she think banknotes are beanstalks, that they grow in a night?"

Letter to the Singer.

He is willing to make a friendly gift of a few thousand lire, but will pay nothing in the shape of damages. There the matter stands now, awaiting settlement by a magistrate. Before the alleged betrothal, Pauline wrote:

"Dearest Signor Caruso: How anxiously I am looking for you today, as it is my day off. How happy am I, well in your heart, and how I promise to love you, for all I have in the world to give you is my honor and faith."

A little later, when the friendship had ripened further, Pauline wrote:

"Dearest: I dreamed you were by me. Oh! If it only had been so."

On receiving a photograph of Caruso in costume, Pauline wrote this:

"My word! How handsome you look! Oh, Enrico, if you had only been with me. And to think of me in my simple frock while you were dressed like that on the stage!"

Caruso was peevish over her spelling and hinted that he had fears that she would never be well enough educated to go into society. She replied: "I have noticed for some time that you were very cross with me."

Sign of a Rupture.

Then came the first serious sign of a rupture. In the letter following, Caruso wrote: "I send you a little caricature of myself and you. Show it to your family to make fun of."

This wounded Pauline's feelings and she responded that she had noticed how curt his letters had become. His ominous reply was:

"That is quite enough. For some time past I have seriously thought of bringing our relations to a close."

Then he goes on to give reasons why they cannot marry. Several succeeding letters waver between fits of good and bad humor. Finally he wrote:

"My Bohemian life is not fitted to bring us together. I have now had time to reflect and I want to part good friends. I shall always retain a pleasant impression of you and am disposed to make good any loss you have suffered by leaving your employment. There are other serious reasons for our not marrying. We should both be unhappy, so let us each retain our liberty."

Speaks With Open Heart.

Pauline's answer was:

"Listen, Enrico. I speak to you with an open heart. I know why you have changed. I shall never believe it was on account of your profession. You are a man. You knew well what trouble you were preparing for a poor creature like me in asking me to be your wife. Let us talk above board about this change of feeling. You say you cannot marry me for certain reasons which would make us both unhappy. But I know this. Listen, my own Enrico. Even though it is like a death blow not to be your wife, I submit to your wish, being unable to do otherwise. But I cannot break off relations with you, for this would be more than I could bear. Enrico, I cannot leave you. In my opinion, you will always be mine. Write soon.

dearest, and let me know when you can come, for I feel you still care for me and we can be happy, even without marriage."

letters from Pauline followed in the same vein. In one she says: "Why trouble about marriage? Where there is affection there is happiness. You will say perhaps that I would be lost to the world. Well, let it be so! At this point Caruso tried to get back his letters. She wrote: "I want you, only you. I shall never give up your letters."
